REOPENING SOON? This Head Start center in the former Logan School in Granite City is among those idled by the financial crisis of the county's Economic Opportunity Commission. The EOC's release of the Head Start program should enable the schools to reopen under a new sponsor by the end of this month.

Blast furnace ready

One of the two blast furnaces used by Granite City Steel that was taken out of production about two weeks ago, will be back in operation tomorrow. The shutdown of the blast furnace, which is the first step in steel production, has had some effect on the work in all departments, according to Carl Baczenas, director of public relations for the steel plant. Baczenas, quoting a statement issued by Granite City Steel, said the "B" blast furnace was being repaired for stove problems that were "encountered after a Christmas shutdown in record-breaking cold weather." HE SAID that the "B" furnace outage "will result in a production shortfall at Granite City Steel," the statement reads, adding, "January orders would have supported near capacity levels of production."

Baczenas said that some layoffs of employees have resulted directly from the outage. Although he did not know the exact number of layoffs, he said the employee cuts were "not anything significant," and the problem is all but resolved.

Head Start seeks new sponsor

By ROGER KRAMER of the Press-Record
The Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission (EOC), following the advice of its ad hoc committee, voluntarily gave up sponsorship of the Head Start program Thursday.

Brian Donnelly, a professor at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville loaned to EOC to help solve the agency's economic problems, said harm to both the Head Start program and EOC would continue if EOC tried to keep the program.

"THE PROBLEM is a difficult and complicated one, and we have gone many weeks without a resolution. Any effort by EOC to appeal the suspension would take many weeks, meaning that children would not be able to attend classes," Donnelly said.

On Dec. 12, the Chicago-based regional office of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS), announced its intention to terminate EOC as the sponsoring agency of Head Start. EOC had planned to appeal the decision.

"As the length of bureaucratic judgments takes, the ad hoc committee did come to the conclusion the lengthy process would harm both the program and the agency's (EOC's) reputation," Donnelly said.

THE EOC Board of Directors unanimously voted to relinquish sponsorship of the program. John Ervin of Venice, president of the board of directors, concurred with the decision. "What good would it do for us to have a committee if we weren't going to listen to its recommendations," Ervin said. "We and the committee want to serve the people of Madison County the best we can."

Head Start Director Carol Werner expects classes to begin as early as Jan. 23 under an interim sponsor, most likely the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Head Start program. The Madison County government also has expressed an interest in operating the Head Start Program, either under the office of the regional superintendent of schools or under the county's community development office.

William Sullivan, an official with the regional Head Start office, confirmed one agency has been contacted concerning the Madison County Head Start program, but he would not say which agency was contacted. "We don't want to pressure the agency into making a decision," Sullivan said.

CURRENTLY, SIUE sponsors the St. Clair County Head Start program, which is based at the university's East St. Louis center.

"I'm thrilled about the decision of the EOC to relinquish the program," Miss Werner said. "It's been such a down time for us at Head Start. It was a bitter, bitter December for me. I believe justice has been done and I believe the democratic process worked in this case."

"I didn't see how the commission could hold on to the program this long. The decision could have been made long before this," she said.

Miss Werner, who said she expects to remain Head Start director after an interim agency is named, believes the next problem Head Start will have to solve is paying bills to its vendors.

SHE EXPECTS Head Start will not have difficulty finding vendors for food, gas and utilities, although

Audit answer overdue

By ROGER KRAMER of the Press-Record
The Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission (EOC) has asked the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA) to extend a deadline for response to the department's audits of two programs.

EOC asked for the extension in the response to DCCA's audits of the home energy and Community Block Grant programs. The response was due Jan. 1, and EOC has asked for an extension until March 15.

The weatherization and Block Grant programs, along with the weatherization program, were found to have $962,982 of questioned costs in audits released in November.

IN A LETTER to DCCA, EOC Board Chairman John Ervin of Venice asked for the extension for three reasons.

"First, virtually all of our records have been subpoenaed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and are in their possession. Second, on Dec. 12, 1983, the Board of Directors terminated

Compromise likely on steel valuation

By BILL WINTER of the Press-Record

A compromise is said to be emerging from discussions of a possible reduction in Granite City Steel's real estate assessment. Meanwhile, plans are proceeding for a meeting this afternoon of legislators and taxing agency representatives on the potential tax impact of future industrial appraisals.

Local governmental agencies' revenue would be profoundly affected if there was a major change in the tax base, such as a sharp revision of a plant's valuation. Granite City Steel, owned by National Intergroup's National Steel Corp., is the largest local taxpayer.

NO SERIOUS PROBLEM remains regarding the steel plant's complaint on its 1983 Granite City assessment (related to 1984 tax collection), sources said today. It has not been withdrawn, however, since there is a desire for a hearing before the Madison County Board of Review.

Current speculation is that a relatively small cut, perhaps five or 10 percent, may be considered for 1983. Regarding 1984, when the new valuation continues under a system goes on assessment rolls, officials are likely to weigh such improvements against the aging of other GC Steel facilities, such as the former Commonwealth steel plant. As related in the Press-Record on Thursday, the deadline for objecting to the valuation of GC Steel property in Nameoki Township was last September. There was no objection then, but the plant met the Jan. 4 deadline to object in Granite City Township.

Thomas Huyer, GC Steel director of finance, told the Press-Record Friday that the company is "close to an agreement, through the good offices of Granite City Assessor Von Dee Cruse."

A COMPROMISE develops, it will be "nowhere near 82 percent, and much closer to the other end of the spectrum. Von Dee deserves the credit," Huyer commented. Cruse said today the whole issue may have stemmed from a communication lack which has now been resolved. He praised GC Steel for its decision to seek a review in a way that avoids harm to taxing bodies and in a non-crisis atmosphere.

Under Illinois law, real estate is assessed for tax purposes at one-third of actual value.

Overall, GC Steel said last week, it thinks its $154,660,470 official value ($51,553,490 assessment) should be $27,152,999 ($9,050,999), an 82 percent reduction.

In Granite City Township, instead of $131,589,840 ($43,863,280), the steelmaker believes the total should be $21,653,000 ($7,217,666), a cut of 83 percent.

In Nameoki Township, instead of the present value of $23,070,630 ($7,690,210), GC Steel suggests it should be $5,499,999 ($1,833,333), a reduction of 76 percent.

But no such drastic revisions now seem likely.

HUYER SAID last week of the formal complaint, "This is not a final offer. We are willing to meet with the government officials and have done so. We want to end up with no one setting hurt, and all satisfied. The last thing we want is to cause a lot of consternation in the community."

Huyer noted that the corporation has been making major cuts in all of its costs except taxation, and said cost reductions are essential in

Madison bank plans second floor

In 1984, a landmark year for the First National Bank in Madison, the bank will celebrate its 50th year of operation with a major expansion of the bank building which will begin this month. It has been announced by John E. Lee III, president.

According to Lee, construction will soon start on a full second story for the present building at Sixth Street and Madison Avenue in Madison. There also will be an extensive remodeling of the ground floor.

The plans call for an additional 5,000 square feet of new space. Bank Building Corporation has contracted for the construction, which will cost approximately $700,000. Bank Building will utilize local labor and material suppliers wherever possible, Lee said.

The decor will be modern and in earth tones, he explained. The first floor will be completely remodeled with the teller and new accounts areas enlarged, a comfortable customer waiting section, plus a centralized and enlarged loan department, with an expanded customer service area, all on the first floor.

An elevator to the second floor will be installed for the convenience of bank customers.

The second floor will house executive offices, a board room, bookkeeping department, cashier's office, auditor's office and a record storage area.

The official groundbreaking, marking the beginning of the project, will be later this month.

The construction and remodeling is expected to be completed and fully operational by the fall of 1984. "With 1984 also being the 50th anniversary year for the bank several special activities are being planned in addition to the new construction," Lee said. "We're here at First National Bank in Madison feel the new additions in space and service is a way of our saying 'thank you' to our customers," Lee commented. "With the enlarged facilities, we can and will offer new and more convenient services to our bank customers. The officers and directors of the bank all have great confidence in the future of Madison, and the bank's entire service area," Lee emphasized.

First National Bank in Madison was officially chartered at 3 p.m. Friday, July 27, 1934. The bank opened its doors at Fourth Street and Madison Avenue at 9 a.m. on Monday, July 30, 1934, where business was conducted until 1962 when the bank was moved into the new building in the present location on Sixth Street.

"In 50 years, times have certainly changed," Lee said, adding that a financial institution also must continue to change and grow.

Lee noted that in the 1930s the average income in Madison was between $1,500 and $2,999, according to a sociological study made at the time. Houses rented for from $15 to $25 per month in 1934, a merchant's lunch at a local restaurant was 35 cents and one could buy a new 1934 Pontiac for $75.

When the bank opened for business 50 years ago, it did so with $50,000 in capital stock, capital reserves of $10,000 and assets of $400,000.

Bank deposits in the 1930's were guaranteed to $5,000 under a "new" national federal insurance law passed by the United States Congress.

Today, the capital stock of the First National Bank in Madison is $50,000, with a $2.7 million capital reserve, assets fixed at $37.5 million and deposits now insured up to $100,000.

The stock in 1934 was sold to 72 subscribers who were largely residents of the Venice-Madison area.

Bank officers in 1934 were: Dr. John E. Lee Sr., president; James R. Alcott, vice-president; Frank Pijan, cashier and H. C. Ransburgh, assistant cashier.

The first board of directors included Arthur W. Baltz, Max Blumenfeld, Francis Lahey, John Malone, Dr. Joseph A. Scopellito, Alcott and Dr. Lee Sr.

Beginning the 50th year, the officers, directors and staff are: John E. Lee III, president (the grandson of the first bank president); Walter Blumenfeld, executive vice-president; Margaret M. Lee, vice-president and public relations officer; James W. Foley, vice-president and auditor; John N. Bellicoff, vice-president; Dorothy Shabo, cashier, and Sharon Jackson, assistant cashier.

The current bank directors are: Andre N. Gitcho, William H. Auferheide Jr., Walter Blumenfeld, Margaret M. Lee and John E. Lee III.

The 1984 "Golden Anniversary" staff of the First National Bank in Madison includes Sammie Lowell, Mary Anna Kaminski, Jean Kostenick, Elvira McMillin, Jane Feltz, Lorne Sadrakula, Renda Reed, Tina Benson, Mary Lou Griffin, Mary Pauline Owen, Gorgeann Krakowicki, Dollares Glasper, Repunzel Farron, Debbie Hawkins, Lois Boyd, Rita Bradford, Zemry Riley, James Vauters and Elizabeth Riley.

TWO STORY BANK building for First National Bank in Madison is envisioned in this architect's sketch. Construction to add the second floor and remodel the existing facilities is to begin this month.

Agronomy Day is Jan. 13

By RONALD E. CORNWELL
Extension Adviser

The 1984 Agronomy Day will be held Friday, Jan. 13, at the Farm Bureau Auditorium in Edwardsville. The program will start with registration at 9:30 a.m.

Steve Ernst, Alhambra area farmer, will show slides and discuss how conservation fits into his farming operation.

All farmers attending Agronomy Day are being encouraged to participate in the hearing testing program. Bellone Lab will have a representative present at 9 a.m. to check the hearing of anyone attending. Farmers in general suffer a greater hearing loss than people in other occupations due to exposure to equipment noise. Many people are not aware that they have a hearing problem. The Bellone Lab representative will be set up in the basement area.

Dave Hawthorne, safety specialist for Country Companies, will speak on "It's Your Life - Don't Lose It." Gary Pepper, University of Illinois soybean specialist, will discuss all phases of soybean production.

The afternoon program consists of two presentations. The first topic will be insect control in corn, soybeans and wheat. Kevin Steffey, University of Illinois entomologist, will cover this topic. The second topic will be "The Soil Erosion Problem" and Bob Walker, University of Illinois natural resources specialist, will discuss this topic.

Lunch will be sponsored by several agri-businesses in the area.

For additional information on the Agronomy Day program, farmers may contact the Madison County Extension office.

CROP SCOUTING WORKSHOP

I want to remind Madison County farmers that they can enroll in a Crop Scouting Workshop scheduled in February.

The objective of the workshop is to improve the grain producers skills in the areas of identifying and controlling insects, disease and weed problems in grain crops.

This is an in-depth workshop where you learn to identify insects, plant diseases and weeds. You learn scouting procedures, economic decision-making on control and control recommendations.

This series of three workshops will be held from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. each day at the Farm Bureau Auditorium in Edwardsville. The first session is Feb. 6 on entomology. The second session is Feb. 15 on plant diseases and the third session is February 20 on weeds.

There is a $12 enrollment fee. The fee covers a crop scouting manual full of color picture identification aids and a crop protection manual. Advanced enrollment is necessary. Interested persons may send the enrollment fee to the Extension office, Box 427, 900 Hillsboro, Edwardsville, Ill. 62025.

URBAN PESTICIDE CLINIC
I want to remind urban pesticide dealers, applicators and those with a horticulture interest of the Urban Pesticide Clinic which will be held Friday, Jan. 13, at Belleville Area College.

AREA DAIRY DAY
Madison County dairy farmers will be interested in attending the 1984 Dairy Day which will be held Thursday, Jan. 19, at the American Legion Hall in Breesee.

The program this year covers three major topics. The first is forage options and opportunities. The second area is an update on effective herd health. The third topic is managing your profit margin.

The speakers include Mike Hutjens, Dave McQueen and Reg Gimes. All three are specialists from the University of Illinois.

For additional information on the program, interested persons may contact the Extension office.

MISSOURI MAN, 22, CHARGED WITH DUI

Dennis E. White, 28, of St. Louis, allegedly declined to take a breathalyzer test following his arrest on a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol last week.

A patrolling officer reported seeing a vehicle operated by White being driven erratically in the 2200 block of Edison Avenue, almost striking parked autos.

When the motorist tried to halt at a stop sign at 23rd Street, he failed to stop until reaching the other side of the intersection, it was alleged. White also was charged with disobeying a stop sign.

FROM THE SPIRIT OF ST. LOUIS TO THE S.S.T. AND BEYOND.

Somebody had to have the get up and go and fly solo across the Atlantic the very first time. It was a courageous fellow named Charles Lindbergh, in 1927.

Even so, Lindbergh's pioneer flight wouldn't have had much real effect on your life if somebody else hadn't come along later with ways to do it better, safer, and a whole lot faster.

It took a special kind of drive and determination to bring this world from The Spirit of St. Louis to the S.S.T.: It took a COMMITMENT TO EXCELLENCE. And that's our commitment at American Heritage Bank of Granite City.

See, we weren't the first folks in Granite City to offer you a complete banking relationship — from personal checking and car loans to money market deposits and IRAs. So if we seriously want your business (And we do!), we have to be seriously committed to giving you a better banking relationship. And we are!

Come put our commitment to the test, and you'll see!

more than $49,000 in gas, food and utility bills had not been paid since April 1983. Many businesses refused to serve the program because bills had not been paid.

For instance, SIUE would not offer speech therapy for Head Start students in late 1983 because EOC had not paid the university for the services.

"I think the Head Start program itself has a high amount of credibility, and I personally feel the vendors will continue to provide goods. SIUE is a reliable customer, and they should be able to pay the bills," Miss Werner said.

SULLIVAN said that none of the bills unpaid by EOC would be transferred to the new sponsoring agency. EOC remains responsible for the bills it has not paid to its vendors.

the Executive Director (Ruben Williams). Third, due to the suspension of virtually all of our revenue sources, the office is operating with only a skeleton staff," Ervin stated in the letter.

The FBI has been investigating EOC for almost seven weeks and Madison County State's Attorney Don W. Weber has asked the Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation (DCI) to look into the agency.

AFTER THE audits were released, the Bank of Alton froze all of EOC's assets, and that forced the closing of all of the agency's programs. The only EOC program still being funded by DCCA is the Block Grant program. DCCA has removed EOC as the administering agency for the home energy program.

On Thursday, EOC voluntarily relinquished the federally funded head start program. EOC's sponsorship of the Foster Grandparents program has also been suspended and taken over by Madison County's senior citizens.

As of Friday, DCCA had not received the letter from Ervin, according to DCCA spokesman Tom Laue. He said the department has informed EOC the response is overdue.

"It's surprising that they didn't make copies of the records before they went to the FBI. We wanted them to respond as soon as they can. We've been working with them over the phone for some time now," Laue said.

LAUE WAS NOT aware of Ervin's letter until reporters from

He expects the interim sponsor to be named next week and classes in late January, possibly Jan. 23. Sullivan said a bids on a permanent sponsoring agency may be taken in March. The agency selected would take over the program in July to give it enough time to begin for the 1984-85 year.

HEAD START enrolls approximately 475 4-year-olds in Madison County. The students have not attended class since Dec. 7, when EOC closed the program.

"No one gave us a practical way for EOC to save the program and there was no way the classes were going to get going soon unless they voluntarily relinquished it. Now that they have done so, we are free to proceed to operate the program," Sullivan said.

area newspapers called him Friday about the requested extension.

DCCA is currently accepting applications for an administrative agency for the 1984 weatherization program in the county. Not-for-profit agencies and local governments are eligible to run the program and must have their applications in by Jan. 20.

Organizations or governments interested in the program may call 1-217-785-3203 for more information on the program.

DESPITE THE problems of the agency, board members said there will continue to be a need for agencies like the EOC in Madison County.

Rudy Papa of Bethalto, treasurer for the board, said, "There always will be a need for a board including some of us — not necessarily as EOC — to help the poor in Madison County. There should be help for the needy and this kind of a board will be needed to support those programs."

Ervin said the prime goal of the ad hoc committee appointed by the EOC board was to save the agency. If EOC can be saved, Ervin said, the next step is to find programs which can be administered by the agency.

"We have to save the agency first, otherwise we can't do anything else," Ervin said, adding, "If the Community Block program comes through and if the agency finds help from other groups such as Madison County, then we can continue."

Madison man charged after attempting to flee police

Keith Alan Stanley, 22, of 895 Madison St., West Madison, was charged with escape Thursday after he unsuccessfully attempted to flee when being transported back to the Venice police station from a court appearance.

A Venice police officer, who was transporting Stanley, drove in the rear of the police station and was talking to the dispatcher on the radio, requesting her to call for two prisoners — meals, when Stanley allegedly jumped from the police car and ran east across Klein Street.

The police officer called out to Stanley to stop, but he allegedly continued running. The officer then fired two warning shots with negative results.

A secretary of state officer joined in the chase with the Venice officer, and they captured Stanley in the 1200 block of Oriole Street. Stanley was brought back to the station and charged with escape.

Stanley had been arrested on Wednesday by the Venice police a battery allegation and on warrants alleging failure to appear in court on two counts of criminal damage to property, theft, three counts of battery, disorderly conduct, resisting arrest, two counts of escape, assault and resisting a peace officer.

Stanley was transported to the Madison County Jail early Friday morning.

CANNABIS POSSESSION AND TRAFFIC CHARGES Gregory G. Williams, 21, of 2417 Dewey Ave., was charged with unlawful possession of cannabis last week when his auto was halted by a patrolling officer at West 23rd Street and Ohio Avenue.

Williams also was charged with improper use of registration (failing to transfer registration) and with having an improper (defective) muffler.

The cannabis charge was filed after a plastic bag containing 25 handrolled cigarettes believed to be cannabis was found in Williams' possession.

The newspaper 'Lilliputians'

While we are not sure we are flattered by the term "Lilliputians" used to describe local non-daily newspapers such as the Press-Record, Bob Bliss of the Hillsboro, Ill., Montgomery County News made some interesting points recently in an article describing the possible closing of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat and the demise of other large city dailies while community newspapers are noting a healthy growth.

Bliss stated in the article, "The strength of the community press can be compared to the Lilliputians, the tiny inhabitants in Jonathan Swift's 'Gulliver's Travels' who, by their numbers, were able to restrain the giant," in this case the majority of newspaper readers.

Bliss blames evening television for the demise of the large daily papers. Persons read in the mornings the same national and state news they heard the night before on TV, and, numerous persons are fleeing the central cities for the suburbs, leaving financially distressed families behind, many of whom cannot afford a newspaper, he contends.

Community news is one thing the TV stations and large papers don't adequately provide. People are interested in local government, local sports, features and items on local events, family-doings, social events, local police news and other items which may directly affect their lives.

Family-owned food stores, small stores in shopping centers and local businesses rely on the community non-dailies to reach their buyers since they cannot afford to advertise in the electronic media or major daily newspapers, Bliss says.

At the Press-Record last week, a kindly elderly lady stopped by and asked for copies of the last three issues of the paper, explaining that she had been out of town and had missed the issues. "I never miss a Press-Record. I read every one," she said.

Her statement is not only support for Bliss' theory, it is warming to our hearts.

How can cuts cost so much?

There has been a great deal of criticism lately about Ronald Reagan's "savage" cutting of social welfare programs, but we ran across an article recently which made us stop and think. We invite readers to decide for themselves.

Official federal budgets for the last year of the Jimmy Carter administration (Fiscal Year 1981) side-by-side with Reagan's just-completed Fiscal Year 1980 show some interesting comparisons. Food and nutrition assistance: Carter, $16.2 billion; Reagan, $17.8 billion.

Social Security: Carter, $138 billion; Reagan, $170 billion.

Medicaid: Carter, $16.9 billion; Reagan, $19.3 billion.

Housing assistance: Carter, $6.9 billion; Reagan, $9.6 billion.

Aid to families of dependent children (AFDC): Carter, $8.3 billion; Reagan, $8.2 billion.

Consumer and occupational health and safety: Carter $1.64 billion; Reagan, $1.07 billion.

The Reagan administration also is paying out substantially more for food stamps, supplemental security income (SSI), health research, unemployment compensation and federal employee retirement and disability programs, among others.

Overall, income-security programs increased from $225 billion in President Carter's last year to about $282.4 billion in the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30, 1983. Health programs went from $70.3 billion in 1981 to $92.3 billion in fiscal year 1983. The entire federal budget increased from $657.2 billion in FY 1981 to about $795.9 billion in FY 1983, according to figures supplied by Copley News Service. Certainly, some social welfare programs have been decreased and there are many feeling the pinch, but the question remains, how much can we, the taxpayers, afford?

Cutting the federal budget in every possible way is essential this year and in years to come if the weight of the massive federal deficit is ever to be reduced, thus freeing vital capital for the private sector and providing every possible incentive for economic growth.

Selling a home can be complicated

When a person sells his home on his own, it has been the experience of this office that the individual is often lost as to what procedures to follow. Of course, once a potential buyer is found, the parties to the transaction must arrive at a sale price. They must also decide what items remain with the house and what items will be taken by the seller. The next step should probably be to consult an attorney to prepare the real estate contract itself.

As a general rule, a contract for the sale of real estate must be in writing in order to be binding on the buyer and seller. Therefore, if the seller and buyer merely verbally agree that the property should be sold for a certain price, this will normally allow either Party to back out of the transaction.

Once the contract is signed, the next step is to conduct a title search on the property. This will tell the potential buyer whether there are any judgments, liens or back taxes against the property. The Buyer should always insist that a title insurance policy be issued in order to insure that he is buying property which is owned free and clear.

In a recent case, a couple decided to buy a lot adjoining their residence. They planned to purchase this lot from an individual who had been their neighbor for many years. They intended to pay cash for this parcel of property and the neighbor in turn was to provide them with a deed to the lot. Despite urgings from their attorney, the buyers refused to have a title search done on the property since they completely trusted the seller. Once the cash was paid and the deed was delivered by the seller, the buyers learned that there was a $14,000 judgment lien against the property. Without a title policy, the buyers in this case suffered a great financial loss.

Law and you

Attorney at Law

After the title search is done, the next step is to "close" the real estate transaction. At the closing, the money actually changes hands. The real estate taxes and the insurance on the property are prorated between the seller and buyer. The seller pays the taxes and insurance up to the date of the closing, and the buyer is responsible for all subsequent payments.

Many of these requirements are beyond the expertise of the average homeowner. An attorney experienced in real estate matters can prepare the contract, order the title insurance policy, "close" the transaction and prepare the deed. When one considers that the sale of a home is one of the most important financial transactions in his life, it becomes apparent that it is wise to consult an attorney in this situation.

State's business climate still worrisome

To the Editor:

The 1983 session of the 63rd Illinois General Assembly produced legislation that was noticeably different from previous sessions.

The Democrat-drafted redistricting of Illinois senatorial, representative and congressional districts, coupled with implementation of the constitutional amendment to reduce the House to 18 single-member districts rather than 59 three-member districts, had tremendous impact on the tone and attitude of the Assembly.

On the House side, a 70-48 Democratic margin clearly put Rep. Michael J. Madigan (D-Chicago, 30th in control of that chamber. With that vote edge, Speaker Madigan established the "official" and "off-the-record" operating rules of the Illinois House.

From his acceptance speech at the reorganization of the House in January until the final minutes of July 2, Madigan demonstrated concern about the Illinois business climate.

Lobbying on major issues was done through negotiations with Democrat House leaders. The process was long, grueling and, at times, less than satisfactory.

On the Senate side, the influx of first-term senators — many of whom came from the House — changed the tone of that chamber. Democrats also controlled the Senate, with a 33-26 edge. An unusual mix of coalitions and issues called for serious one-on-one lobbying.

Despite the pro-business campaign rhetoric and floor and committee speeches in both chambers, the 83rd General Assembly did little to improve the lot of Illinois business. The success of this session is best judged not by what pro-business legislation was passed, but by what anti-business legislation was modified or killed.

Major issues in 1983, where industry initiated for the "best" of a "bad deal" included HB 327 — Unemployment Insurance Agreed Bill; HB 741 — Toxic Substances Disclosure to Employees; HB 1237 — Increased Hazardous Waste Disposal Fees, and HB 1470 — State Income and Sales Tax Increase.

All these bills were modified to minimize the negative impact. Especially important to industry are Illinois Manufacturers' Association-opposed bills that were defeated or blocked: SB 87 — Grants Prejudgment Interest; SB 702 — Prohibit Change of Venue; FB 274 — Video Display Terminal Safeguards; HB 1619 — Industrial Hostage Act; and HB 2215 — Community Right to Know Toxic Substances in the Workplace.

Also defeated were several tax proposals: HB 1382 — One Year Limit on Local Government Tax Refunds; HB 1795 — State Tax Add Back of Federal Economic Recovery Act of 1981 Deductions; HB 1847 — Commercial Renting and Leasing Tax; and SB 65 — Taxes Computer Software.

Also defeated were: HB 42 — Amends Landfill Siting Act; HB 256 — Amends Landfill Siting Act; SB 168 — Bans Liquids in Landfills, and SB 981 — Waste Oil Defined as Special Waste.

On the negative side, several important bills were blocked from passage. Bills on workers' compensation to require credit for pre-existing conditions, repeal of the Scaffold Act and recommitment of benefits failed to pass, as did the IMA-authored Product Liability Act (SB 1271) and hospital cost containment (SB 495).

IMA-opposed bills that did pass the General Assembly included employees (SB 536, HB 1530), amendments to the Workers Compensation Act (SB 1070), and employee access to personnel records (HB 2055).

SB 143 (Public Act 83-0983), a comprehensive bill that increases the hazardous waste disposal fees in Illinois, has been signed into law by Gov. Thompson.

Effective Jan. 1, 1984, the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) shall collect from the owner or operator of the following sites a fee in the amount of:

— Three cents a gallon, or $6.06 a cubic yard, of hazardous waste received at offsite hazardous waste disposal sites.

— Three cents a gallon, or $6.06 a cubic yard, of hazardous waste disposed onsite where it was produced (maximum $10,000 a year per site).

For an underground injection well disposal: $2,000 a year, 10,000 gallons or less a year; $5,000 a year, 10,000,000 to 50,000,000 gallons a year; $9,000 a year, 50,000,000 or more gallons a year.

— One cent a gallon, or $2.02 a cubic yard, of hazardous waste received for treatment at an offsite hazardous waste treatment site owned, controlled and operated by a person other than the waste generator.

SB 143 (PA 83-0983) also establishes a 14-member Hazardous Waste Advisory Council, provides that the Pollution Control Board and not the IEPA sets permit fees, and cites the IEPA as the state agency charged with implementing the Superfund cleanup of problem hazardous waste disposal or handling sites.

Praises Rev. Jackson for flyer's release

To the Editor:

I have nothing but high praise for our hero and brother, the Rev. Jesse Jackson, who is responsible for helping freeing U.S. Flyer Robert O. Goodman Jr. Thank God, Robert is free from Syria without harm. I don't care what people may say about Rev. Jackson. It took him to get Robert Goodman freed.

Many people were against Rev. Jackson for going over to Syria. The Reagan administration refused last week to even endorse the trip, saying it may distrust official negotiations.

In Damascus, U.S. Ambassador Paganelli had sought Goodman's release earlier last week and that failed. So God used a citizen by the name of Rev. Jackson, a Baptist preacher who met with the Syria ambassador and also the president of Syria.

To show the world that God can take common level of man and bring him to high standards, in the presence of the President and men of high earthly power, Rev. Jesse Jackson surprised the world, sent shock wave to the White House, and puzzled the politicians of both parties. With God's help, Rev. Jesse Jackson must get full credit for the release of Robert O. Goodman Sr. regardless if it was for free press coverage, political, national attention, or whatever you want to call it, the history book will say that the Rev. Jesse Jackson, a black Baptist preacher, is credited with the release of Goodman.

People, let's face it. The Rev. Jackson is somebody. The only thing he is asking is, give me a chance. I am glad and feel real good about Jackson's mission, a job well done.

Assessment

order for steel production to be viable and profitable.

Partly related to the possibility of an assessment decrease, the Granite City Board of Education scheduled a special meeting Sunday morning for a "discussion of school funding."

WHEN IT WAS concluded that tonight's 7:30 board meeting would be soon enough for such a discussion, it was decided to cancel yesterday's meeting through lack of a quorum. The only members attending were School Treasurer Kelly Hogan and Board Member Monroe Worthen.

Also at the board office were Supt. B.J. Davis, Finance Director Norman Owen, Employee Relations Administrator Harold Hillmer, School Attorney William Schooley and four spectators.

Madison County Supervisor of Assessments James Barton, who is to meet with various appointed and elected officials at 1 p.m. today, is concerned that it might be difficult for the county and other taxing bodies to defend the assessment against data prepared by the Property Tax Research Co. in St. Louis. A detailed appraisal of the plant by the county might cost $50,000 to $100,000, he told the Press-Record.

Barton objects to a provision under which a research firm might be paid half of the tax saved for clients. He says professional appraisals are given considerable weight by the Illinois Property Tax Appeals Board, which considers complaints by property owners on county review board rulings.

NEGOTIATIONS with industrial property owners have made up part of past assessing procedures, Barton says. He adds that the company told him in late December there should be a reduction in its assessment of at least half.

GC Steel cites the values placed on similar properties in this region, the general upward in Illinois industrial taxation, and the cumulative impact of compounded annual township assessment multipliers set by the county's Board of Review.

On the advice of Barton, the Board of Review each year reviews the 24 townships and increases some of the assessments by a fraction. This enables the county to comply with state ideas on property values and avoids the setting of a countywide multiplier on top of township multipliers.

Among the reasons that the state takes an interest, aside from fairness, is its desire for statewide assessing uniformity. The amount of a school district's tax base affects how much financial aid is distributed to it by the state government.

BASED ON TAX RATES, $1,460,250 of School District Nine's levy might be at stake as well as $583,950 of the taxation by the City of Granite City under a "worst case" scenario, the elimination of four-fifths of the steel assessment.

Present assessment totals for all real estate, not just that owned by GC Steel, include $188,303,386 in the city and township of Granite City, School District Nine.

Tax rates on each $100 assessed valuation are $2.95 for school district, $1.374 for the City of Granite City, 27.6 cents for Granite City Township, 75.4 in Nameoki Township, 39.6 town fund and 36.8 road and bridge fund, 23.1 cents for the Granite City park district, 29.1 cents for the Metro-East Sanitary District, 68.6 cents for the Madison County government and 18.2 cents for Belleville Area College. Some of these rates are at the maximum authorized level.

Granite City Treasurer Nick Petrillo and School Supt. Davis said both of their agencies are operating with severely restricted budgets and that any major assessment cut would worsen existing problems for the city and schools.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS, who have been studying reducing the administrative staff and its salaries by up to $250,000 a year, are to consider tonight several proposals from consulting firms. If hired, a consultant would review the staff's operations and recommend changes and economies.

Although a study itself would be a cost, past consultation with firms such as Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. has been credited with achieving substantial savings and improved efficiency.

Time also may be a factor. Board Pres. David Partney said at the December Granite City Rotary prayer breakfast that dismissal notices to certificated administrators may be issued in late January or in February.

An "outside" study, among other things, would provide a basis for determining the extent of of administrative cutbacks that could be made without damaging the district's programs. The $250,000 figure does not stem from Board of Education of administrative studies.

Assessor Cruise said last week he had been assured by GC Steel of its willingness to ease any adverse effects.

The company said it pays more than $6 million annually in property taxes. This figure apparently includes the personal property replacement tax as well as real estate property. A $7 per $100 really tax rate applied to $93.5 million would produce $3.6 million.

THE COMPLAINT on Granite City Township valuations could best be described as a "request for a review," Huyer told the Press-Record. It is not intended as a "protest," he emphasized.

A small operating profit was achieved at Granite City Steel starting in the spring of 1983 after a series of large monthly financial losses.

The problems facing industries and governmental bodies have been reviewed by State Rep. Sam Wolf, Granite City, who has discussed them with the Illinois Legislative Council. He is chairman of the council, the research arm of the Illinois General Assembly.

If suitable remedial legislation can be devised by the council, it will be introduced at Springfield in 1984, Rep. Wolf reports.

GC SCHOOLS annually borrow 85 percent of the tax levy in the form of first-year tax anticipation warrants and a lesser percentage of the levy in second-year warrants.

The district already has adopted next year's budget and is to act tonight on next year's levy to provide a basis to borrow two years ahead.

The limit on first-year and second-year tax warrants relates directly to the tax base; the debt limit's amount shrinks when the base itself decreases.

Although any major change in the tax base would have an immediate effect on the debt limit, any revenue reductions might be partly offset by an increase in state financial aid, based on attendance and financial ability.

Rep. Wolf reports.

$97,000 in magnesium missing

Don McClain, industrial relations manager for Consolidated Aluminum Co., College Street and Weaver Avenue, Venice, reported to police Wednesday that he noticed 97 billets of magnesium were missing while taking a company inventory.

He said that the magnesium weighed 650 pounds a billet and was valued at $1.60 a pound. He said the total loss was $97,045. He further stated that the last time inventory was taken was Nov. 30, 1983.

WOMAN HURT ON NAMEOKI

When she apparently lost control of her auto on icy pavement Thursday, the vehicle operated by Twyla I. Latog, 22, of 5501 State St., slid sideways off Nameoki Road into a ditch near Mitchell Avenue and struck an embankment on the opposite side of the ditch. The driver sustained a minor injury, reports noted.

GREASE FIRE IN VENICE

Venice firefighters extinguished a fire at 3 a.m. Saturday at the one-story frame home of Alma Stanley, 1115 Market St., when grease on a stove caught fire and flames spread to a wall in the kitchen.

3-year sentence in hostage case

A three-year prison term was ordered Thursday by Circuit Judge Philip J. Rarick for Peggy L. Long, 28, Granite City, for holding three persons hostage Aug. 17, 1983, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

The sentence relates to two counts of unlawful restraint and one count of forcible detention. Rarick, Madison County chief criminal court judge, recommended that the defendant be given psychiatric counseling while in prison.

Demanding that a friend of hers be discharged as an SEMC patient, Miss Long last summer held two nurses and a woman patient hostage at gunpoint in a glass-enclosed second-floor nurse station for a half-day.

Sgt. David Ruebhausen and Officer Walter Milton Jr. of the Granite City police were sent to the scene and succeeded in freeing the three hostages and wresting a .357 caliber magnum handgun from the woman after they had assured the trio's safety. The gun was loaded.

Chief says blaze caused by arsonist

According to Venice Fire Chief William Meehan, a fire that resulted in about $500 damage to a home at 1213 Logan Ave., was believed caused by arson.

The Venice Fire Department was summoned to the home at 4:55 a.m. Friday when the area near the west living room window started on fire.

Meehan said that the fire was the second on that night that had occurred at the residence. "The owner of the home said that someone had started a fire on the rear porch about an hour earlier that day. He said he put the fire out himself. Later, he said he woke up and smelled fire. That was when he called us."

The police report stated that the fire had been caused by a flammable liquid that was poured on the porch and then ignited. "As far as we're concerned, this was a case of arson. But it's up to the police department to figure out who this guy's enemies are," Meehan said.

WOOD RIVER CHARGES PONTON BEACH MAN

Wood River police arrested Kelly C. Hodges, 22, of 6053 Gaslight Walk, Pontoon Beach, at Route 143 and Park Lane in Wood River at 5:40 p.m. Sunday, charging him with driving under the influence of alcohol, driving while his license was suspended and improper lane usage.

Hodges was released to Granite City officers one hour later on an active warrant issued here, alleging failure to appear on a charge of driving while his license was suspended.

Peter Ustinov in comedy

Peter Ustinov will appear in "Beethoven's 10," a comedy written by the performer. The show will be presented at the Fox Theatre, Tuesday through Sunday, in cooperation with The Muny.

The comedy is being presented in St. Louis as part of a pre-Broadway national tour.

Ustinov plays a reincarnated Ludwig van Beethoven, classic music composer, called back to earth by a young girl to settle some family problems.

Ustinov's career includes two Academy Awards for "Spartacus" and "Topkapi" and three Emmy awards. He has appeared as Agatha Christie's detective, Hercule Poirot, in "Evil Under the Sun" and "Death on the Nile."

Ticket prices range from $6.90 to $17.90. Those wishing show and ticket information may call 1-314-367-8686.

Madison schools conduct Parent-Teacher Day

Madison Community Unit District 12 will have its annual Parent-Teacher Conference Day on Wednesday, Jan. 18. All parents of students attending classes in the Madison schools are requested to obtain appointments. Appointment forms will be sent to all parents starting today.

During the conferences, parents will have the opportunity to check their children's progress, see work samples, become acquainted with the educational methods, curricula and evaluation system. Assessment can be made of each child's progress in relationship to his or her ability and potential. Parents also will be provided with suggestions as to things they might do to help their children succeed. Appointments also can be made with special education teachers.

The Madison School District is encouraging parents to be prompt in keeping their appointments to obtain full allotted time value and also to keep others from waiting.

A friend of mine recently told me that she is in the process of obtaining credit in her own name, even though she is married, and she and her husband have several bank credit cards and retail cards. When I asked why, she simply said she thought it was a good idea "if and when." Is this a good idea, and could you go into the "ifs and whens" in a little more detail than my friend did?

A. The "if and when" your friend spoke of is probably the event of her husband's death or of divorce and, yes, it is a good idea for a woman to establish her own credit, even though happily married. If the credit cards they now carry are set up as most are, they are in her husband's name. This is fine until death or divorce does occur. Many credit experts encourage women to establish their own credit accounts, and to use those accounts enough to keep them active. Those same experts agree that when applying for credit, you should take the time to fill out credit applications accurately, and to list references accurately.

Increased training for science faculty ahead

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Science is alive and functioning well at Granite City High School but some enhancements are probable as the nation moves during the mid-1980s to intensify various academic and scientific instructional programs.

This is the view of Harold F. Gebhardt, department chairman, who notes that "legislation passed by the state last year will require all students to take one year of science."

"This will have no effect on us, since we already require our students to take a year of science. Our facilities would not allow us to go beyond this one-year requirement."

Addressing the Citizens Advisory Council of the Granite City School district, he said, "There is a renewed concern about the state of science education at the national level."

"You will recall that Sputnik, the Soviet space vehicle, in the late 1950s resulted in large expenditures of money by the federal government for the improvement of science education."

"Money was provided for in-service training of teachers, purchase of equipment and supplies, and curriculum development."

"Most of these programs were discontinued in the 1970s, but in the next year we are likely to see money provided by the federal government for in-service training of teachers."

In addition to Gebhardt, the science faculty includes:

James R. Harsh, physiology, chemistry and biology; Allen R. Kemmerly, biology and life science; David A. McClain, biology and physical science.

Richard F. Miller, biology and life science; Thomas H. Pinnell, biology and life science; Robert L. Rehg, biology and life science.

Marvin J. Rensing, biology and life science; Ralph W. "Bill" Rotter, chemistry; Bruce C. Ullman, earth science and physical science.

Willis M. Whitfield, physics and physical science; Gregory D. Patton, health education; Bryan Wilkins, health education; and Nancy A. Graf, medical occupations.

Gebhardt described the science department courses and prerequisites, displayed a class flow chart, and reviewed the science curriculum for college-bound students (one year each of biology, chemistry and physics).

He noted that science is one of five disciplines in the GCHS honors program. The honors program was said to symbolize the district's efforts to improve the education of some of those planning to attend college.

Gebhardt listed four problem areas:

—The size of junior high and ninth grade classes requiring science instruction. The size makes laboratory work very difficult.

—The lack of phasing of classes at the junior high level. My personal opinion is that this is going to hurt our better students.

—Finding someone to teach physics next year. Mr. Whitfield is retiring after this year.

—The condition and location of our science rooms. In a North Central Association evaluation 12 years ago, our facilities were described as "unsatisfactory, only barely adequate, and definitely inferior" to those of several large high schools in this region. Few if any changes have occurred since that time.

Current course offerings, including accelerated classes, are: life science; physical science; health; biology 1, 1a, 2, 2a, 3a and 4a; earth science 1 and 2; introduction to medical occupations and terminology 1 and 2; physiology 1 and 2; chemistry 1, 1a, 2, 2a, 3a and 4a; and physics 1, 1a, 2 and 2a.

Courts conclude 4,590 Nov. cases

Although it was a busy month in Circuit Court, Third Judicial Circuit (Madison and Bond counties), the volume of pending cases increased by 764 cases, partially due to heavy filing of traffic cases and Granite City's filing of 51 cases to recover mobile home taxes, only 19 of which could be terminated during the month.

According to the circuit's report to the Supreme Court Administrative Office, 5,333 cases were filed and 4,390 cases were terminated during November, "which is larger than normal for the month of November, Willard V. 'Butch' Portell, circuit clerk, noted.

Major law cases requiring a jury, usually the most time-consuming, gained in currency as only 34 were filed, fewer than normal, and 66 were terminated, Portell noted.

"This was a busy month for the court system and Chief Judge A. Andreas Matosian and I are satisfied with the report, with the exception of the loss of currency, which we hope to make up in the future," Portell concluded in releasing the monthly report.

Following are the numbers of each major type of case filed, terminated and pending at the end of November.

Cases	Filed	Terminated	Pending
Law cases seeking more than $15,000
Jury	34	66	1954
Non-jury	38	12	447
Law cases seeking $1,000 to $15,000

Misdemeanor	395	291	3128
Small Claims	281	432	2619
Totals	1,312	1,212	13,918

In the traffic division, 3,524 new cases were filed during November and 3,033 were terminated, the report shows.

Of the 60 felony cases were heard during the month, 49 were convicted of felonies, one was discharged at a preliminary hearing, nine were dismissed or consolidated with other cases and four were reduced to misdemeanors.

Guilty pleas during November included one for murder, five for Class One felonies, 22 for Class Two felonies, 19 for Class Three felonies and two for Class Four felonies.

Felony sentences during the month included 22 persons sent to prison, 12 receiving probation with periodic imprisonment and 15 receiving probation or conditional discharges with other conditions.

Device helps deaf learn about energy conservation

A Telecommunications Device for the Deaf (TDD) has been installed at the Illinois Department of Energy and Natural Resources (ENR). "The TDD will enable/deaf to communicate with the deaf and hearing impaired and expand our information services to them," said Michael B. Witte, director of ENR.

In recent months, ENR has begun conducting energy conservation workshops for the deaf and hearing impaired to provide them with energy information. The workshops are conducted in sign language by ENR staff and are supplemented with a captioned video tape.

"The deaf and hearing impaired haven't been able to learn about energy conservation through the broadcast media or everyday conversations," said Witte. "By installing a TDD, they can contact us and convey what their needs are regarding energy information."

The TDD operates via a typewritten message. Most deaf centers in Illinois are equipped with such a device compatible with ENR's making them readily available to the majority of Illinois' deaf citizens.

To receive free energy information, interested persons may call the Illinois Department of Energy and Natural Resources toll free between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., Monday through Thursday, at 1-800-252-8955.

Farm tax estimates due Jan. 17

Jan. 17 is the deadline for farmers to file their 1983 estimated income tax declarations with the Illinois Department of Revenue.

Farmers can bypass the Jan. 17 deadline, however, by filing a state income tax return, IL-1040, and paying all tax due by March 1, 1984.

Under the state Income Tax Act, farmers have two choices for meeting their state income tax responsibility.

They may file an estimated tax declaration (IL-1040ES) and pay their estimated tax for 1983 by Jan. 17 and then reconcile their tax account when they file their IL-1040 by the April 15 deadline, or farmers may forego the January estimated tax payment by filing an IL-1040 by March 1 and paying the total tax due by that date. Farmers who choose to satisfy their tax obligation by filing the IL-1040 by the March 1 deadline must be sure to mark the box on the form designated for farmers.

Failure to mark this box could result in a penalty being assessed.

By state statute, farmers are individuals who derive at least two-thirds of their total gross income for that tax year from farming.

U.S., Israel To Coordinate Military Activity

61822 New York Times news Service
WASHINGTON—A U.S.-Israeli political-military committee will be set up to coordinate military planning, joint maneuvers and the monitoring of U.S. arms in Israel.

President Ronald Reagan and Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir made the announcement Tuesday after two days of talks. They said the increased military cooperation was intended to deal with the Soviet military presence in Syria and elsewhere in the Middle East. "It was intended to announce that we have agreed to establish a joint political-military group to coordinate the area by monitoring more than 40 political-military joint military operations of Soviet arms and personnel in the region."

The joint political-military committee will be headed on the U.S. side by New York Assistant Sec. of State William J. Bennett, director of the State Department's division of political-military affairs. The name of the Soviet representative was not announced, but the committee will meet in Washington in the first week of January. The group is to meet at least once a month.

In addition to the increased strategic cooperation announced Tuesday, the United States also agreed to a series of economic and military concessions to Israel, including the lifting of the ban on the supply of cluster bombs, provided that weapons inspectors are notified and concerns in the Israeli war the U.S. declaration that it was willing to negotiate an accord that would allow peace, although between the two countries. The U.S. plan to set up a free-trade area with Israel is aimed at ending that country's long economic isolation, the same way that the United States

'Road show' Warriors upend Comanches, 77-70

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER

CAHOKIA — Playing at home, there's a certain advantage competing in familiar surroundings. Most teams prefer it. Others thrive on it. And, all look forward to it. Unless, of course, that team happens to be Granite City High School's varsity basketball squad.

Friday evening, in the Warriors' third home game of the season,

Through the first 13 games of the season the Warriors have suffered through less than total team effort performances. During the Mater Dei Holiday Tournament, for instance, forward Jeff Gray led all scorers in the final game against Chatham-Glenwood with 32 points while the rest of the team floundered offensively. The Warriors were successful in defeating the Redskins, but they lacked consistency — the team element.

The Warriors opened the second quarter strong improving upon their four-point lead early. Tim Goodwin fouled Cant providing the Warriors' center to sink back-to-back free throws. Guard Joe Gray stole a pass intended for Marks, passed to his brother, Jeff, who scored an easy layup to pad the Warrior by eight.

After a Cahokia timeout, the Granite City lead fluctuated between six and eight points for nearly four minutes before the already hot Warriors got even better.

With 3:10 showing on the second-quarter clock, Jeff Gray sank a 20-footer to give the Warriors their first 10-point lead of the game, 36-26.

After a Comanche basket, Hylla preserved the 10-point lead by sinking a shot from the top of the key, 38-28.

Granite City took an 11-point lead at the quarter's end with Jeff Gray's successful free throw resulting in a technical foul by Comanche Coach Ken McBride.

As important as the victory itself was, what happened in the second half was confidence building block for the maturing Warrior squad. In the second half, Cahokia narrowed the Warrior lead, and even threatened to take the lead, but the Warriors the Warriors met that challenge head on. The Warriors certainly deserved to win.

Late in the fourth quarter, three-fifths of the Warriors' starting five had already tallied their fourth fouls. With 4:18 remaining, Hylla committed his fifth offense but as it turned out, due to the Warrior bench, the Warrior lead was never in jeopardy.

Gerald Booker and later Gary Aperson took their fill-in positions on the court and the transition was smooth. Booker, in fact, scored crucial free throws in the waning minutes to preserve the Warrior lead and victory.

"It was a total team effort," Deterding said afterwards. "Art (Williams) brought the ball down the court well, Joe controlled the offense, our three shooters connected, and Jerry responded best when we really needed him. He connected on some key free throws."

The Warrior victory may have surprised Comanche fans but not Comanche Coach Ken McBride. "I knew they weren't a bad ball club. I told my people that Granite City was better than their record indicated," McBride said.

"Granite City's a scrappy bunch. We came at them and they battled avored Granite City failed to capitalize on its home court advantage, losing to Collinsville, (see related story) 55-66. But allow the Warriors to take their show on the road and they can be quite different as Cahokia found out the following evening.

Saturday in Cahokia, the Warriors turned their monstrous Mr. Hyde performance of the previous evening into a Dr. Jeckyl scoring extravaganza as they battered the highly touted Comanches 77-70.

Granite City scored on 49 percent of its attempted field goals against Cahokia Saturday. On Friday, at home against Collinsville, Granite City was three percent better in that category, scoring on 46 percent of its shots attempted. Goals attempted against goals scored, however, were only part of the story. In addition to shooting better on the road, the Warriors also commit less turnovers on the opposition's court. Against Collinsville, the Warriors committed 19 of the miscues — eight in the fateful third quarter — as opposed to 12 against the Comanches on Saturday night.

"That's the difference of playing at home and away," Warrior Coach Don Deterding said after Saturday's victory. "For some reason we don't play well at home. It seems like we're tight, tense at home. But when we're away we play better, more relaxed as we did tonight."

Deterding's assessment was accurate. Saturday's victory was the Warriors' fifth win against nine losses this season. All five of those victories — against Edwardsville, Chatham-Glenwood, Assumption, Nashville and Cahokia — have come while the Warriors have been on the road.

"Sure we're concerned about it (not winning at home), Deterding said. "They need to turn it around. They need to learn that it's easier to win at home. As of yet, they haven't learned that but they will. We're gaining more confidence all the time."

Indeed the Warriors are gaining more confidence all the time. Saturday's victory was evidence of that. It was more than just another win on the road for the Warriors. It very well may have been a turning point in the Warrior season.

Or consider Friday's Collinsville game, Scott-Cant, the Warriors' 6-foot 5-inch center, led all scorers with 21 points. Deterding called that game Cant's finest of the season. But the rest of the Warriors' starting five had an uncharacteristically low scoring game.

In few words, Saturday's game with the Comanches was the first time that all of Granite City's offensive machines were working at the same time.

"This was the first time that all of the combination was working. And they're all juniors," a happy Deterding said after the game. The combination Deterding was referring to is Cant, Jeff Gray and Kurt Hylla. Their joint offensive effort against Cahokia was 65 points.

Initially, Saturday's matchup with the Comanches began slow. The Warriors took an early lead in the contest as Hylla sank back-to-back jumpers to put Granite City up 4-0 about two minutes into the contest. But it didn't take long for things to heat up.

Johnell Marks put Cahokia on the board as he connected on the second of two free throw attempts just more than two minutes into the game. Jeff Gray scored a looping jumper over the outstretched hands of Cahokia's Anthony Rhodes with 5:42 remaining to improve the Warriors' lead to 6-1.

By now, both teams had overcome the early-game jitters and the scoring surge began.

Midway through the first quarter Cahokia managed to cut the Granite City lead to two, 10-8, as Rhodes connected on a three-point play. Cant responded by placing an offensive rebound through the hoop 15 seconds later.

The final four minutes of the quarter resembled a run-and-gun contest with a high school game. Cahokia worked its shots inside while Granite City's Jeff Gray, Hylla and Cant effortlessly picked the Comanche defense apart from the perimeter.

Cahokia's Alonzo Washington moved the Comanches back to within two points with less than a minute remaining in the first quarter but Hylla dropped a bucket from the left side at the buzzer to preserve the Warrior four-point fought back, preserving their lead and eventually the victory.

"As important as anything," Deterding said, "was they made a run at us and we responded. Earlier in the year we would have panicked and felt apart. We're gaining the confidence and composure of a winning team."

Granite City entered the third stanza with a neat and cozy 11-point lead. Cahokia, on the other hand, managed to whittle away at that lead in the third quarter to trail by just eight after 24 minutes of play, 36-48.

In the fourth quarter, Cahokia immediately cut the Warrior lead to six, tied four and with 6:30 remaining in the game, Marks looped in a jumper to cut the Warrior lead to three, 57-54.

A full-court Comanche press had begun to rattle the ranks and worry Warrior fans.

Cahokia had taken control. Rhodes made matters worse when he stole a Warrior pass intended for Cant, dashed the length of the court to score trimming the Granite City lead to one, 57-56.

Where the Warriors had faltered earlier in the season they succeeded on Friday night. Jeff Gray scored on a fast break layup to give the Warriors a three-point advantage once again and Cant sank the front end of a one and one situation to put the Warriors up by four, 60-56.

As it turned out, that was as close as the Comanches got to upending the Warriors.

Cahokia challenged their lead and Warrior cagers falter; lose to Kahoks

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY, Collinsville High School basketball coach Gene Catalpa was smiling after his team's 66-55 victory over Granite City Friday night. He had every reason to be.

—The Kahoks, who were 2-7 going into the game, defeated a team many thought were favorites to win. Although both teams carded losing records going into the game, the Warrior record was better, 4-4.

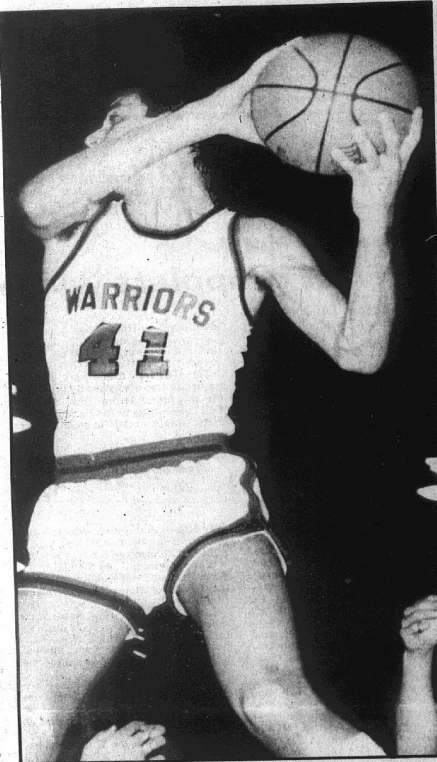

Collinsville has not been playing well lately. That didn't make Catalpa smile, but the way the Kahoks played Friday did. The Kahoks, who have played consistent basketball through the first three quarters, have sputtered in recent games in the waning moments of bondable games. Those inept moments have cost the Kahoks to lose some close games. But it was different for the Kahoks Friday night. They were forced to play the Warriors 24-8 in the third quarter to breeze to their third win of the season.

—The Kahoks' third win also turned out to be Catalpa's 99th career victory as Kahok coach, so, along with that smile, celebration was in order.

"We've had trouble holding to our lead going into the fourth quarter lately. Catalpa began. "In the past, we let a team come back on us because we couldn't make the free throw when we were forced to. That's what was, so nice about this win. We had the lead, gave up a few points, but came on for the win."

Catalpa said. As mentioned, the Kahoks and the Warriors battled through a nearly even first half. After eight minutes the scores were tied at 15 and at halftime Collinsville led 27-25.

The third quarter, however, was quite different. For Collinsville, the third quarter grandiose. For Granite City it was catastrophic.

CANT CAROM. Granite City High School's Scott Cant displays the kind of form that enabled him to lead all scorers in Friday's non-conference game with Collinsville. Despite Cant's 19-point performance, the Warriors dropped the game to the Kahoks 66-55. Things, however, were better for the Warriors as they went on to defeat Gateway East conference rival Cahokia 77-70.

Warrior center Scott Cant tied the game at 27 in the opening seconds of the third quarter with a turn around jumper. But soon after that, Collinsville began dominating, scoring at will.

Kahok guard Jeff Smith began Granite City's demise at the two-minute of the third quarter when he stole a pass intended for Kurt Hylla, dashed the length of the court for an easy two-points. Smith's score improved the Kahoks' lead to three, 32-29, but it did more than just widen the point spread. It was the beginning of the end for the Warriors.

Mike Hunter, Collinsville's 6-foot 2-inch senior forward didn't help Granite City's cause much. In addition to pacing Collinsville to a 19-point performance, the Kahoks' high point man slammed dunked a bucket to further demoralize the Warriors while fueling the Kahok attack.

When things got bad, they really got bad. Cant, who was the game's leading scorer with 19 points, then left the game following a fall which sent him crashing to the hardwood.

With Cant out of the lineup, Collinsville wasted little time in taking advantage of the situation and eventually amassed a 16-point lead at the quarter's end, 51-35.

In the fourth quarter, the Warriors managed to outscore the Kahoks 20-15, but it was too little too late. Collinsville amassed an insurmountable lead in the third quarter.

The Kahoks' big man, 6-foot 6-inch center John Stringer fouled out 33 seconds into the final quarter. But even with Stringer's exit the Kahoks managed to keep the Warriors at bay.

Granite City managed to cut Collinsville's lead to eight, 54-46, with five minutes remaining. But 30 seconds later, what Warrior fans had feared in the Warrior comeback happened. Jeff Gray, Granite City's leading scorer this season, fouled out. The Warriors' hopes of a comeback suffered a severe blow with Gray's exodus.

Thirty-one seconds later, for all intents and purposes, the game was over. Cant, the Warriors' second leading scorer, fouled out. Although the Warriors have the ability to score without Gray and Cant, without them they didn't have the offensive firepower to keep pace with an offensive oriented team like Collinsville.

"I think we knew that we were favored and we played like it," Warrior Coach Don Deterding said afterwards. "We acted like all they had to do was take the floor and victory would be ours."

"You can look back at that third quarter and point to it as the turning point, but in my opinion we lost the game in the first quarter," Deterding said. "We had the opportunities to score in the first period and didn't. We should've had a 10-point lead by the end of the first quarter."

"I'm very disappointed with the way we played. They've got to learn that even when they're favored to win, they have to take the court with a fear of the other team. They didn't have that fear of losing tonight," Deterding said.

Deterding had little praise for the Warriors after the loss to the Kahoks except for Cant.

"I thought Cant was the only who played like he wanted to win tonight. This was by far his best game of the season."

Hatter's magic leaves Lincoln Land lumbering

By PAULA WISE

GRANITE CITY — Patrick Hatter opened his season with the Granite City Center Stars basketball team on a winning note Saturday, leading his team to an exciting 105-81 victory over the Loggers of Lincoln Land Junior College.

Hatter, who was ineligible for the first half of the season, debuted with 33 points, a new school record.

"We knew Hatter would help us. I'm really pleased with his play. The remarkable thing is he didn't play more than 30 minutes and still scored that many points," stated Stars Coach Larry Graham.

The win gave the Stars an 8-4 record.

The game started off slowly for the Stars, with Granite City failing to capitalize on early Lincoln Land turnovers.

The Loggers pulled to an early 10-4 lead before a Stars timeout broke their momentum. After the timeout the Stars applied a press which forced several Logger turnovers.

With the help of 12 Hatter points, the Stars tied the score at 20.

The score remained for the next 10 points with neither team taking charge. With the score tied at 30, the Stars began their scoring surge. The Stars ended the next nine points. They held the same nine-point lead at the half 43-34.

"I think the layoff really hurt us. We were a little slow getting started," Graham said.

"The key was our press. Besides causing the turnovers it really got our team going," he added.

Graham's team really "got going" in the second half. Lincoln got the ball at the beginning of the second half but quickly turned it over to the Stars. Hatter and Ronald Goodwin then combined to give the Stars six straight points to increase their lead to 49-34.

"Goodwin's play has really come around. He was named to the All-Tournament team at the John Loggins Tournament," Graham said. "The final game down there was his best game so far. It is hard to believe that this is his first year of organized basketball." Graham said. Goodwin did not play basketball in high school.

A Lincoln Land timeout seemed to settle the team down. The Loggers pulled to within 11 points before Goodwin put in three more points for the Stars.

Carvel Claggett added four points to increase the Stars lead to 18 points, 58-40.

Lincoln Land then began a comeback of their own. Eight straight points by the Loggers got them back into the ball game and made the score 58-48.

This scoring spree forced a Granite City timeout and the defense the Stars had displayed in the first half had now vanished.

During the timeout the Stars regrouped. They came out and scored six points to the Loggers two to regain their 14-point lead.

The teams traded baskets with neither team taking complete control until the Stars began their move about 12 minutes into the second half. After that it was all Granite City.

A basket by Kerwin Stanley gave the Stars a 19-point lead. A Lincoln Land timeout did the Loggers little good as Marc Parker and Goodwin followed with baskets to increase the Stars lead to 94-71.

Hatter continued his aggressive play and added six more points for the Stars to put them over the 100-point mark.

In the final eight minutes of the game the Stars outscored the Loggers 24-11. Those 24 points proved to be the difference in the score.

"I really feel good about beating them," stated Coach Graham after the game.

"They came in thinking they could beat us since they beat us the last time we played. That may have helped us." The last time the two teams met, Lincoln Land edged the Stars by two, 75-73.

"This was a good win for us. Our team is playing some exciting ball games," Graham added.

Thursday, the Stars will meet Logan Chiropractic at home. The game will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Coach Graham looks for this to be a tough game for the Stars.

"They've got a good team. They have two players that are 6-foot 7 inches tall so they should be really tough inside," stated Graham.

"They beat Kaskaskia who has beaten us twice."

Warrior grapplers win two of three

For the Granite City High School wrestling team, two out of three ain't bad.

The Warriors won two of their three wrestling matches this weekend and increased their dual meet record to 7-4 for the year. The most satisfying of the meets for Granite City was a 35-15 victory over Belleville East Friday in Belleville.

On Saturday, the Warriors traveled to Bartonville-Limestone for a triangular meet and left with a split. The Warriors defeated the host team 31-21 but lost to a powerful Pekin team 41-15.

"It's nice to win two out of three meets," Granite City Coach Bill Schmitt said. "It was especially good to beat Belleville East. We looked like we had better stamina than we did at the holiday tournament. We didn't run out of gas like we did earlier this season."

On paper, Schmitt thought the meet would be split 6-6 with pins deciding the winner. However, the Warriors won eight of the 12 matches and easily toppled the Lancers. Jeff Cotter (98), Gary Mann (105), Jeff Wakeford (112) and Greg Nemeth (119) opened Friday's match with wins against East, and the Lancers were hard pressed to catch up. Pins by Mark Whitaker (145) and Deron Griffin (HWT) helped to clinch the win.

Tom Sparks (138) and Steve Knogel (167) also won decisions for the Warriors.

"We made a couple of adjustments, putting Sparks in the line-up and moving Knogel to 167, and that made a lot of difference in the match," Schmitt said.

The Warriors made part of their Saturday trip a success by knocking off the home team, Dan Whitsell (155), wrestling in his first match in some time, and Griffin picked up the only pins of that match. Whitsell pinned Jim Perkins in 5:31, and Griffin put Greg Johnson on the mat in 1:48. Mann, Nemeth, Jon Slecka (126), Whitaker and Tom McElroy (185) all picked up decision wins in the meet. Cotter won by forfeit.

In the other half of Saturday's meet, the Warriors weren't quite as fortunate. Pekin, which wrestles a good portion of the year against Chicago-area teams, was simply too much for Granite City.

"I don't know how good they are compared to the other teams up there, but they are a very good team compared to the teams in this part of the state," Schmitt said. Cotter, who has the Warriors' best record at 172, pinned Todd Murphy in 5:54. From there, things went downhill for Granite City.

The Warriors won only two more matches, decisions by Sparks and Knogel. Slecka scored a 7-7 draw against Bob Edwards at 126.

Granite City wrestles defending Missouri champion Francis Howell in Granite City Saturday.

Two winning wrestlers suffering from injuries could be back in action Saturday. Mark Dowdy, 4-1-1, and Brent McKenney, 7-3, are returning state qualifiers who have been set back by injuries.

EDWARDSVILLE — In a year when small schools are making their presence felt in the area's basketball scene, Venice is definitely making its bid for a spot among the Metro-East's elite.

Cases in point are the Red Devil's recent championship in the Columbia Holiday Tournament and Friday night's 69-54 win over Metro-East Lutheran at MELH's Hooks Gym.

Although the final margin was only 15 points, the Devils beat early on their Illini-Gateway Conference foe, and they were never in danger. As usual, Venice used its stunting quickness and outstanding shooting to make up for its lack of size.

"We're small, so we have to take the good shot and use our quickness instead of height," first-year Venice Coach Clinton Harris said. "We're just trying to play good defense and take the good shot."

That formula has resulted in a 9-2 overall record and a 3-0 league mark, while MELH led 5-6 and 2-2 in conference play.

Leading the way was 5-8 guard Eddie Salmond, who burned the Knights with steals and breakaway baskets in the first half and long-range jumpers after intermission. He finished with 22 points, while 5-10 forward Phillip White scored 17 and in the first half, was Venice's long-distance shooter in the first half, and according to Sievers, the Devils' deadly outside shooting can be demoralizing to a team. The Knights played a solid man-to-man defense, but there wasn't much they could do with a team hitting 49 percent of its shots from the field.

"It's discouraging when you work that hard on defense and they knock it down from 25 feet out," Sievers said. "They shot the ball exceptionally well from the outside."

The game was settled early with White and fellow forward Charles Milton shooting past the Knights' halfcourt defense for four easy layups in the first quarter. The Devils added two long jumpers from Salmond and McGhee to take a 12-2 lead with 4:22 left in the first quarter.

The first quarter ended with the Red Devils ahead 20-11, and when McGhee opened fire early in the second quarter, he nearly blew the Knights out of Hooks Gym. He hit three from over the key and Salmond and White added baskets in a 10-2 burst that gave Venice a 30-13 lead with 4:57 left in the first half. The Devils led 38-19 at the half, and they stretched their lead to 29 points at one time in the third quarter before Harris cleared his bench in the fourth period.

Although Metro-East Lutheran has fallen under the 500 mark after a good start this season, Sievers said he saw some promise in the game, including some good intensity on defense and the improving play of 6-3 center Doug Hopper.

Hopper scored eight points and grabbed nine rebounds, but as a team the Knights hit only 35 percent of its shots from the field. The only advantage the Knights had was the free throw line, where MELH hit 20 of 27 shots and Devils hit three of six.

"We worked hard, and we played with a lot of intensity," Sievers said. "But in the first half McGhee was every bit of 25 feet outside and in the second half it was Salmond."

Junior swingman Craig Deterding scored 22 points to lead the Knights, while playmaker Bryan Steinhilber scored 11.

MEN'S TENNIS
Claiming each year it gets more difficult, Head Coach Kent DeMars and the Cougar tennis team successfully defended their reign as the NCAA-II Champions and walked away with an unprecedented sixth consecutive win in 1983. Making their final collegiate appearance before turning professional, Ken Flach once again led the way as the St. Louis became the first athlete in NCAA history to win three consecutive national singles titles.

Flach also teamed with another soon-to-be professional, Robert Seguso, and won not only the NCAA-II championship but placed second in the NCAA-I Tournament.

WOMEN'S TENNIS
Proving that there's more than one nationally-ranked tennis team on the SIUE campus, the women's tennis team also turned in a record-breaking performance during the 1983 campaign.

After leading the team to a berth in the NCAA-II National Tournament, the Cougars' top doubles team of Laurie Forederer and Patty Tiddy won their first second in the tournament and become the first women tennis players in SIUE history to earn a berth in the NCAA-I National Tournament.

As a team, the Cougars qualified to the national tournament after being ranked second in the Midwest Regional but came up against a powerful California-Davis squad in the first round of nationals. Cal-Davis went on to finish second in the NCAA-II.

MEN'S SOCCER
With all the accomplishments the men's soccer team has compiled over the years, the 1983 season will long be remembered as the only time in SIUE history the Cougars failed to reach the NCAA National Tournament.

Despite winning 10 games, including Coach Bob Guelker's 290th career victory, the Cougars' season ended in disappointment. The team named St. Louis University, Eastern Illinois and Southern Methodist from the Midwest Region.

The Cougars' season featured several outstanding individual performances as Chris Hundel, a sophomore back from St. Louis, was named to the varsity team of the All-American squad and senior forward Dan O'Keefe was a second-round draft choice of the Kansas City Comets of the Major Indoor Soccer League.

GOLF
The Cougars regained their national tournament form in 1983 and made their 10th NCAA-II Tournament appearance in 11 years.

Bob Gaus, a senior from St. Louis, became the second golfer in SIUE history to earn first team All-American honors, while teammate Jay Elhausen, a senior from Edwardsville, received an honorable mention to the All-American squad.

Cage game to benefit Dymas family

Members of the Madison School Board have designated the basketball game between Madison High School and Metro-East Lutheran High School on Saturday, Jan. 28, as a benefit game for the Sam Dymas family.

The junior varsity game will start at 6:15 p.m. and the varsity game will be played at 8 p.m. No tickets will be available at the door, so all tickets must be purchased in advance.

Superintendent of Schools John Palchick said that although all tickets will be sold on a donation basis, persons will be asked to contribute at least the regular price of the ticket, which is $1 for students and $2 for adults.

Palchick said that the proceeds of the game, minus expenses, will go to the family of the late Sam Dymas, who died late in November. Mr. Dymas is survived by his wife, Pam, and daughter, Holly Ann.

Trojans overcome third quarter woes; pummel Pioneers

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

MADISON — If one thing's for sure, the Madison Trojans are not a third quarter team. In fact, they have been outscored 137-134 by their opponents in the third quarter.

Of course, Madison has outscored its opponents in the other three quarters, otherwise the Trojans wouldn't be 9-2 this season. But horrendous third quarters have made many of those games closer than they should be.

Madison's 73-67 victory over East St. Louis Assumption Friday was a classic example.

Madison jumped to an 18-0 lead in the first five minutes of the game and appeared to have the Pioneers under their belts. Almost as suddenly, Assumption outscored Madison 26-14 in the third quarter and cut the lead to two points.

Indeed the Trojans were fortunate to win.

"We've got to do something to get our players going in the third quarter," Madison Coach Larry Graham said. "I don't know why we don't play well in the third quarter, but we've let several teams come back in the game in the third quarter."

With Former Cardinals

Maxvill part of baseball school

ST. LOUIS — Eight former St. Louis Cardinals stars, including Bob Gibson, Curt Flood, Mike Shannon, Tim Lincecum, Red Schoendienst, Dal Maxvill, Joe Cunningham and Joe Hoerner, will be in attendance at the first St. Louis Cardinals' All-Star Baseball School, Jan. 8-15 at the Cardinals' spring training facilities in St. Petersburg, Fla.

At the Cardinals' camp, men ages 30 and over become "rookies" for eight days and seven nights, going through the same rigorous professional baseball players go through each spring. At the conclusion of the camp, the rookies will battle the former Cardinals stars in an All-Star baseball game at Al Lang Field.

Additionally, the former Cardinals stars will serve as instructors throughout the week of training, as Vivid in Graham's memories were comeback tries by Venice earlier this year and by Benton at the Central Holiday Tournament. Madison leaped to unimpeachable leads only to be challenged by both teams in the second half.

"I've been thinking about having the players do full-court drills during halftime to get them going," Graham said. "I really don't know what to do about it."

If the Trojans continue come out of the blocks as they have for most of the season, they might not have to do a thing. Madison almost played perfect basketball the first five minutes of the game.

Madison made eight of their first 11 field goal attempts and picked off the ball four times in the initial minutes of the game. Only once did Assumption have more than one shot at the basket during that time.

"I knew we weren't overconfident about this one because of the way we came out to start the game," Graham said. "I don't know what happened after that."

On the other hand, Assumption Coach Greg King had no clue to what happened to his team in the first quarter.

"We looked like we never practice before in our lives in the first three or four minutes of the game," King said. "We made a bunch of poor turnovers, and we weren't shooting the ball."

"You take away the first four minutes of the game, and we outplayed them and we beat them," King said.

Once reserve forward John Moody finally put the Pioneers on the scoreboard with 2:47 left in the first quarter, Assumption played equal to — if not better than — the Trojans.

Madison maintained an 18-point lead through the second quarter, but Moody and Cliff Yancy dissolved the lead in the third quarter.

Assumption held a Madison scoreless for nearly four minutes. Meanwhile, the Moody-Yancy scoring act went into high gear. Moody scored 10 points in the third quarter, including a pair of 35-foot jumpers. Yancy scored 14 points in the quarter, eight of those of free throws.

"Moody missed some practices before the tournament, and he was benched. Ever since then, he's become a different man, and he's worked real hard, and it showed tonight. Yancy's hit 73 percent of his field goals, not his free throws, but his FIELD GOALS, all year," King said.

Those two put us back in the game," he added.

Yancy and Moody paced Assumption's attack with 27 and 18 points respectively.

Graham called a time out with two minutes left in the quarter, but that didn't stop Assumption. With 32 seconds, Yancy's basket cut Madison's lead to 32-30.

Like many times before, the Trojans shined under adversity. Madison, paced by their big men — James Bennett, Joe Crowder and Reggie Banks, went ahead by as much as eight points in the fourth quarter, but the Pioneers' Anthony Liddell, who added 17 points, kept things close by hitting eight points in the last three minutes of the game.

"At times we were really aggressive. We were getting the rebounds and three or four shots. Other times, we weren't very aggressive at all. Part of that is because we're not as deep as we usually are," Graham said.

Despite the lack of depth, the Trojans were blessed with balanced scoring. Bennett led the Trojans with 18 points. Guards Michael Young and Deloyd Williams both scored 15 points, and Crowder put in 10 points for the Trojans.

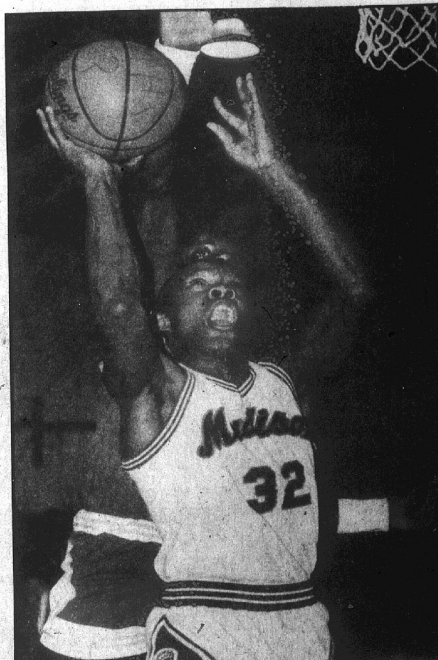

Things don't get easier for the Trojans. Madison is traveling to Bunker Hill, the fourth-ranked team in the Press-Record Class A basketball poll, Tuesday for an 8 p.m. game.

Madison, the top-ranked team, has defeated Bunker Hill three times in the last four seasons in the sectional tournament, including a 52-50 overtime victory over the Minutemen in last year's sectional tournament.

Keeping pace with Gallatin isn't easy

By AL BARNES
for the Press-Record

Harry Gallatin, one of the greatest defensive basketball players to ever come out of Northwestern Illinois, was the first cage coach at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. He was a brilliant player for Wood River High (a native of Roxana), played his collegiate ball at Northeast Missouri State U. at Kirksville, Mo., before landing on to a long-time berth on the great and legendary New York Knicks for a 11-year career in the pro ranks.

After finishing his pro career in New York, he coached the Salukis of SIU-Carbondale to four straight winning campaigns and then was hired by Ben Kerner to coach his St. Louis Hawks. After winning the championship that first year in St. Louis, Gallatin was fired by Kerner and moved on to coach the Knicks. He didn't last too long in the Big Apple and was suddenly out of work and ended up back in Carbondale doing "color" for an area radio show covering the Salukis.

A sports reporter like myself, looking back on Gallatin's career and making a judgment about him athletically, one must judge him thusly: he was without a doubt — and still is to this day — the No. 1 rebounder in the history of pro basketball. They didn't call him "Harry the Horse" for nothing.

To a man, the players on Gallatin's last SIUE cage team (1969-80) feared Gallatin's driving and would do anything, but anything, to escape riding with him on road trips. He drove fast. He had a "heavy foot," in fact, he pushed down the gas pedal and held it down to all the car would do, be it 80 or 90 miles per hour. His foot, according to his players, was big enough to serve as a homeplate in baseball.

I started to work for SIUE as Sports Information Director in January of 1969. Early on, I was surprised, and somewhat mystified, that three of the first team players, Alton's Bernie Pitts, Madison's John (Champ) Summers and Venice's Rich Estington, always ended up in my staff car on road trips.

After the third or fourth road trip and my probing questions demanding "by," Pitts blurted out the reason. "Coach Gallatin drives too fast and we are afraid to ride with him."

Which brings me to the reason for this column.

Late in the 1968-69 season, the Cougars were slated to play Western Illinois U. at Macomb. As the cars in traveling party lined up to leave the Campus enroute to Macomb, Bernie, Champ and Rich, plus another Cougar, were in my auto. We stopped to have an early pre-game meal in Jacksonville, Ill.

As we got into the auto on the last lap of our trip, Gallatin and his group roared away like a diver at Indianapolis. To my chagrin, the engine on my staff car showed red on the temperature gauge. And, over an hour later after repairs, we finally got going toward our meeting with the Leathernecks.

Driving faster than I normally do, I no doubt, I admit, broke some speeding laws as I attempted to make up for lost time.

So, I wasn't too surprised when Champ Summers said, as we neared a stop sign on the outskirts of Macomb: "Mister Barnes, there's a State Policeman behind you signaling for you to pull over." Sure enough, I was in trouble.

The state policeman, a nice young man, asked for my driving license, while complimenting me, somewhat sarcastically, it must have been "Mister Barnes you are a very good driver, but sir, for the last 20 miles you have broke every speeding law in the books. What's your hurry?" he asked.

I told him my sad story of engine trouble and that I had four of SIUE's starters in my car and finally, that I was in a hurry to see that they were on hand for the Cougars' game against Western.

To my great relief, he tore up the speeding ticket he had already written and verbally warned me to slow down in the future. In appreciation, I wrote him out a "Press Pass" for the game and was in the act of climbing out of his patrol car when he asked me:

"By the way, Sir," he asked, "does the game start at 6 or 6:30 p.m.?" Without thinking, I answered: "No, the game is set for 8 p.m."

With a grimace, he shook his head and said: "Sir, if I had realized the game was for that late, you would have gotten that speeding ticket."

I didn't tarry, but hurried to my car and slowly, but very slowly drove into Macomb.

Aided by state borrowing, construction spending tops $4 billion in 2 decades

Over the past 20 years, the State of Illinois has expended $4.4 billion for construction or improvement of both state and local facilities, Comptroller Roland W. Burris reported last week. The major beneficiary during the period was higher education, with total expenditures of $1.4 billion for new facilities at Illinois colleges and universities.

The comptroller's monthly fiscal report centers on state spending for the construction or acquisition of facilities, their related expenses, plus the financial assistance needed for such programs at the local level.

Also in the report, he examines the impact of the poor harvest on farm incomes and the Illinois industries that serve the farm sector.

In his regular report on the state's fiscal health, the center of attention is the increase in revenues to the general funds during the first five months of fiscal year 1984.

While those revenues have improved, the state is still spending more than it has received in fiscal 1984.

Here are some of the key findings of the special report outlining Illinois' capital spending program since fiscal 1964.

Capital expenditures are classified either as permanent improvements (primarily spending for state facilities) or as awards and grants (spending for local facilities).

These include expenditures for land acquisition and relocation costs, planning and professional fees, site construction, acquisition or improvements of existing structures and facility equipment.

Expenditures for highway and waterway construction, grade crossing improvements, and improvements under $5,000 assigned to contractual services are not included.

From fiscal 1964 to fiscal 1983, capital expenditures from all funds totaled $4.386 billion.

Permanent improvements spending accounted for $2.523 billion or 59.8 percent of this total. The remaining $1.763 billion or 40.2 percent represented grants for local facilities.

While spending for permanent improvements has remained fairly steady with two peak spending periods, awards and grants to the local level have become increasingly more significant. Consequently, capital expenditures since fiscal 1969 have averaged more than $250 million per year and since fiscal 1980 more than $300 million.

Major financing for capital expenditures comes from the sale of bonds, of which $3 billion have been sold in the past 20 years.

From fiscal 1964 to 1972, the Illinois Building Authority issued $54.4 million in revenue bonds for construction of state facilities. From fiscal 1972 through 1983, the state issued $2.6 billion in general obligation bonds for capital expenditures.

The Capital Development Board, created in fiscal 1973 through 1983, the CDB represented projects from over 30 different agencies, including higher education and projects not assigned to a specific agency, with expenditures totaling $1.159 billion in that time period.

The Illinois Building Authority had expenditures of $74.3 million from fiscal 1964 through 1983. The Public Building Fund was created for the Authority's use with the funds derived from bond sales, rental payments and accumulated interest.

Since fiscal 1964, the state has spent $1.763 billion for capital grants to local governments, municipalities, school districts, hospitals and mass transit districts. The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency accounted for 30.1 percent of all capital grants with $530.9 million for solid and sewage treatment facilities.

During the past 20 years, higher education, including community colleges, has benefited the most from the state's capital improvement program.

A total of $1.4 billion has been expended — $298 million from their own permanent improvement appropriation, $604 million from the Capital Development Board and $510 million from the Illinois Building Authority.

In total dollars spent, Environmental Protection Agency followed with $330.9 million, the Department of Transportation with $497 million, and the State Board of Education with spending of $377 million.

In another study, Burris noted that the 1983 Illinois corn crop of 624 million bushels was the smallest crop in 25 years and less than half the production level of the previous two years.

The result of drought and the PIK (payment-in-kind) program, the reduced 1983 corn crop led to substantial price increases, with Illinois farmers receiving $3.41 per bushel of corn in November, an increase of nearly 50 percent in one year.

For soybeans, which were not included in the PIK program, 1983 production also suffered through the drought, with the smallest crop since 1976 and down 29 percent from the prior year. Prices for soybeans, too, showed a dramatic increase, averaging $8.16 per bushel, up more than 50 percent from a year ago.

For livestock, producers' numbers were not as bright. High feed costs and low hog prices reduced the average price received by Illinois hog farmers to $37.30 in November, 29 percent less than what was received in 1982. Cattle prices held up somewhat better, with November prices at $54.30 per 100 lbs., an increase of about 4 percent over the year.

The mixed numbers had the same effect on farm incomes, with corn farmers who took advantage of the PIK program receiving substantial benefits while farmers who did not, or who specialized in hog production, suffering with reduced income.

However, national figures indicated the good factors outweighing the bad and national farm income increasing from $22 billion in 1982 to between $24 billion and $26 billion in 1983.

Tractor and combine sales continued their depressed trend from the previous two years, but increased plantings in 1984 could lead to higher sales and production.

The long-term outlook for the Illinois farm economy depends on whether future bumper crops will bring a return to reduced prices and large inventories or whether the farm sector has entered a period of higher prices and healthier incomes, Burris said.

That all depends on future weather conditions and on the demand for U.S. products on the foreign market, since farmers will most likely plant more next year in response to higher prices and the elimination of the PIK program.

After five months of fiscal year 1984, the state's general funds balance stood at $80 million, down $45 million from the prior month but still $87 million higher than the balance at the end of November 1982. Since the beginning of fiscal 1982, the month-end balance has been above the $200 million fiscal "warning zone" level only two out of the past 29 months.

Total revenues to the general funds after five months reached $3.611 billion, $320 million or 9.7 percent above comparable revenues in fiscal 1983. Revenues from state sources increased by $464 million while federal sources decreased by $144 million.

Five-month expenditures in fiscal 1984 were $3.641 billion, $206 million or 6 percent above comparable expenditures in fiscal 1983.

Here is a breakdown of the revenue picture after five months of fiscal 1984:

Income tax receipts up $324 million. Sales tax receipts up $62 million. Short-term borrowing up $50 million. Transfers in, up $20 million. Federal sources down $144 million.

Refunds spending up $142 million. All other grants up $84 million. Operations spending — up $59 million.

Transfers out, up $6 million. Common school fund spending down $28 million.

Public aid grants down $50 million.

We do our best for you.

Van pooling in county growing

Van pooling in the local bi-county area is expanding this month to include four more vans and 60 additional riders. It was noted at a recent meeting of the Madison County Transit District board.

Goal is to reduce highway congestion and decrease fuel use by grouping those who commute to work each day. The vans are driven by commuters and are made available by the transit district.

The board approved a new budget listing $1,800,000 for bus service from the Bi-State Development Agency, $525,000 for paratransit programs and $131,000 for the van pool system.

The van program totaled 12 vehicles and 180 riders in 1983, it was noted.

The 1984-85 allocation for van pool costs was recommended to the board by Jon Ford, van project manager for Madison and St. Clair counties, who described the vans as "a tremendous addition to public transport."

Susan Schold, Madison County transit manager, said the board has received many compliments on the van system, which began two years ago.

"Only favorable comments have been received from participants, employers and local officials concerning the institution of van pools," she told the board.

William R. Haine, an Alton attorney and chairman of the transit board, said vans "have worked out extremely well. Everyone who has participated has been pleased with the service."

He noted that groups of 15 persons can jointly operate a van at much lower cost than if each driver took his own auto.

Vehicles utilized in the program are owned by Van Pool Services, Inc., a subsidiary of Chrysler Corp.

Ford praised Madison County for adopting an "innovative approach to assure complete transportation services for its citizens."

Under paratransit, another major program, the district issues grants to 25 non-profit agencies to operate transportation programs independent of Bi-State, including vehicles that serve senior citizens and handicapped persons. There are more than 2,000 such trips daily, Miss Schold estimated.

Pointing out that the district's contract with Bi-State will be up for renegotiation in June, Haine said efforts will be made to expand the working to outline operating standards, including the disciplining of drivers who are rude to riders or who fail to pick them up when they are trying to board at a bus stop.

Other points of concern to the district are buses that fail to run on schedule or that fail to operate at all on a route on days they are supposed to appear.

Haine said major emphasis will be placed on securing efficient and courteous bus service at all times.

on Nutrition

It's that time of year again—the time for new starts, good intentions, and making resolutions. We want to pay for our sins, so to speak, of indulgence during the holidays.

Perhaps we should set goals or resolutions for ourselves that are realistic. If our goals are realistic, we might achieve them and not abandon them by early January.

Here are some resolutions that shouldn't be too hard to keep:

1. Smile more. A smile is infectious and will make you feel better.

2. Don't follow fads. There is no such thing as a fast weight-loss diet that is good for you or an exercise program that is easy. Don't be gullible.

The newest fad is "rebound exercising," which is done on a mini-trampoline. It would be better to save the money and buy a good pair of running shoes.

Any advertisement that claims that exercise is no work, no sweat, or, as one ad claimed, can improve your eyesight is a lot of baloney.

As for fad diets, save your money and use common sense. You could resolve to eat more fruits and vegetables and less foods with high fat content.

3. Drink more water. It is calorie-free, and your body needs water to function properly. Give it a try.

4. Use the stairs and skip the elevator. Walk more, period. Even a little exercise is better than none.

5. Do not take megadoses of vitamins. They can do more harm than good.

These are five goals or resolutions for the new year that shouldn't be too hard to achieve. They could save you money and make you healthier.

The State Police implemented a six month (July 1 to Dec. 31) educational program, whereby motorists who were in violation of the Child Passenger Protection Act were issued a written warning for the first offense and informed about the act.

Superintendent Laimutis Nargelinas said, "During the first six months of this new law, troopers issued 1,907 written warnings and 10 citations." He added, "Troopers will be enforcing a law that our children can live with. Show a little restraint. Buckle up your child."

Wilbert W. Pearson, 29, East St. Louis, was arrested by Madison police last week and charged with two warrants alleging probation violation. He was confined in the Venice Jail and later transferred to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville.

Hospice not yet certified for Medicare reimbursement

Since the passage of legislation providing reimbursement for certified hospice services through Medicare, many persons have become confused about the availability of these services in Illinois. Even though, at present, there are no certified programs in the state, it is extremely important to note that a wide variety of high quality hospice programs are in operation and may be partly reimbursable under existing third-party payment systems (Medicare A and B, Medicaid or private insurance).

The recent legislation requires that hospices seeking reimbursement through the hospice benefit of Medicare must be certified as specifically eligible for it. This certification is highly complicated process which requires all hospices (now widely diverse in structure) to conform to one uniform programmatic and administrative form. Some hospices are planning to comply with this form, but many others feel this is not in their best interests or that of the terminally ill whom they serve, according to Rosemarie Lindner, director of Hospice of Madison County.

created by recent publicity concerning the new benefit has led the Illinois State Hospice Organization, which represents the vast majority of hospice providers in the state, to try to clarify the question. To quality hospice services are available in Illinois, the state group says.

ISHO encourages those interested in hospice services, certified or otherwise, to contact their local hospice for complete information. Locally, persons may call Nina Millett at Hospice of Madison County in Granite City, 798-3820.

CHARGE MINORS WITH POSSESSION OF BEER

While operating radar equipment in the 2000 block of Johnson Road last week, an officer halted a vehicle operated by Michael David Macko, 19, of Rural Route 2, Box 944, and charged him with speeding. He also was booked for being a minor in possession of alcohol after beer allegedly was seen in the auto.

Jeffrey Wayne Helvey, 18, of 2565 Northridge, a passenger, also was charged with being a minor in possession of alcohol. Both were released pending a Feb. 3 court appearance.

Services are available for night, weekend students

Students who plan to attend evening and weekend classes at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will find many time-saving, helpful services available to them through the Office of Academic Services. The Evening and Weekend Student Services office, in Room 1315 of the Peck Building, serves as an informational outlet for students who do not attend during the traditional day hours. Students can pick up course catalogs, financial aid forms and information, Illinois veterans scholarship information, housing applications and parking stickers.

The office can also handle registration, admission changes, veterans requirements, drop and add changes, and grade problems. Hours of operation are from 5 to 9 p.m., Monday through Thursday. In addition, the office will be open on the first three Saturdays of winter quarter from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m., plus the Saturdays during each registration period.

AN ACADEMIC COUNSELOR is on duty each evening. However, scheduled appointments must be made in advance. Personal counseling is available each Tuesday from 5 to 8 p.m. A student who needs to get a copy of a personal transcript, for instance, could contact Academic Services for assistance. The office would arrange for a copy to be made and brought back to the office for the student to pick up during the evening or weekend hours.

Randy Rock, acting coordinator of the Academic Services office, explained, "We're mainly an information conduit. We arrange to take care of paper work and leave it for students to pick up in our office."

"We're finding many students who needed courses and services on nights and weekends. They were not able to attend school any other time. There's three elements to education: teaching, research and public service. And we're fulfilling the public service function."

Even Mother Nature fooled in 1983

Looking back on the year 1983 might be enough to make the groundhog stay in his burrow and never come back out to check on his shadow. To say the least, it was a year of diverse and severe weather phenomena in the Quad-City area.

Things started off calmly until May 1, when a twister touched down at 8:28 p.m. and left in its wake a wide path of destruction. Wreckage from the tornado included carports, tree limbs, portions of buildings, roofs and downspouts.

MAJOR CENTERS of damage included the then-idle A.O. Smith Corporation plant, Nameoki Grade School and portions of the Crossroads Shopping Center and Nameoki Village Shopping Center. Stores that received considerable damage were Central Hardware, Schnuck's, Long John Silver, Exo Photo, Great China Restaurant, a Farm Fresh Store, K-mart, Creative Travel and O'Brien's Tire Company.

Many homes also received extensive wind damage. The worst-hit neighborhoods included a section of Lynch Avenue, where several homes lost their entire roofs.

JUST TWO WEEKS later, on May 15, Mother Nature dealt another blow to the local area—this time in the form of an earthquake.

At 12:17 a.m., a quake measuring 4.4 on the Richter scale rattled windows, shook homes and alarmed many people. Some thought another twister had touched down, and others thought an explosion might have occurred at an industrial plant.

Luckily for the Quad-City area, the epicenter of the earthquake was in Highland, and little or no serious damage occurred here.

IN ANOTHER two weeks, Quad-Cityans felt a little like the animals who didn't make it onto Noah's ark. In the first week of June, the area was drenched with 3.3 inches of rain, with the heaviest accumulation of 2.6 inches hitting in one day. There was a mini-torrent of local flooding in streets, basements, backyards and especially the streets in the West Pontoon Road area.

A month later, residents, corn growers and other farmers were wishing for a little of the rain experienced the month before, as temperatures soared to 100 plus.

The high temperatures resulted in a heat emergency alert and the opening of a heat relief center at the Salvation Army Community Center. Three cases of heat exhaustion were treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center and nine people died of heat-related illnesses in the bi-state area.

THE 1983 WEATHER relented after the severe July and August heat wave until the month of December, especially the latter part of that month. On Dec. 23, the temperature never topped zero and the mercury fell to 12 degrees below zero on Christmas Eve.

Christmas Eve set a new record for the area, with the lowest high temperature on record at five below zero. The wind chill factor made matters even worse on already weakened car batteries, plummeting to minus 66 degrees at times. Christmas Day also was much colder than usual, the thermometer plunging to 13 degrees below zero during the morning.

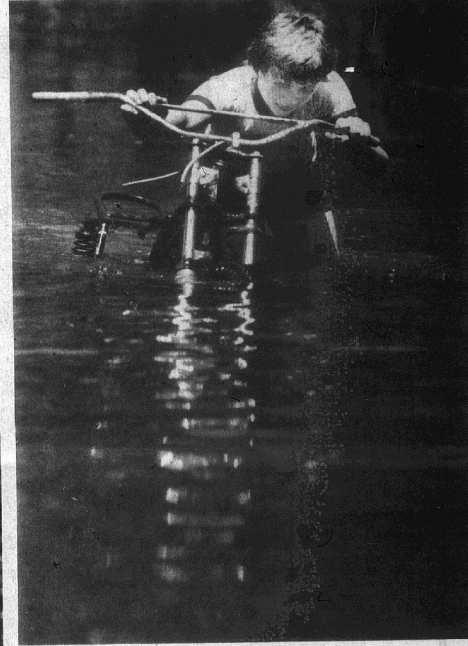

WEATHER-WISE, the area was not lacking for anything in 1983. In fact, Murphy's Law seemed to be the general rule for the year's weather.

Just about anything that could go wrong, did so.

The weatherman owes everyone an apology, Quad-Cityans concluded as they "rang out" the old year and hoped for a more moderate climate in 1984.

Weather played an important part in the lives of Quad-Cityans during 1983. Clockwise from top left: The tornado which ripped through the area on the evening of May 1 left part of the roof of the A. O. Smith auto frame plant on its front lawn; Perennial floods caused higher than usual water levels on Chouteau Island, also in May; A long, hot summer brought drought conditions to area farmers which is evident in these shriveled soybeans; In December, the coldest month on record since 1872, temperatures plummeted to a low of minus 12 with wind chill indexes reaching minus 60 on Christmas Eve.

Campaign for pay equity for women

As a result of a lawsuit filed in U.S. District Court by the million-member American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), 15,000 working women in Washington State stand to receive $500 million in back pay because the state was found guilty of violating the Civil Rights Act — permitting the development of a sex-segregated workforce in which female-dominated jobs were dramatically underpaid.

Now AFSCME has begun a nationwide educational campaign designed to alert working women about the suit and their legal rights on the job by sex-based wage discrimination exists.

The union last week released a booklet entitled "You've Come a Long Way-Maybe: A Working Women's Guide to Pay Equity" which it says will be made available to AFSCME's 400,000 women members and 30 major women's organizations.

The booklet contains a checklist of workforce practices which women workers can use to determine if their employer is illegally practicing wage discrimination among female employees.

The AFSCME booklet notes that working women have, historically, been underpaid:

1. On average, a woman with four years of college can expect to earn about the same salary as a man who never finished high school.

2. Despite ads displaying women doctors, pilots and scientists, women are still concentrated in low-paying, dead-end jobs. Eighty percent of working women are employed in only 20 out of 427 occupations listed by the Census Bureau.

3. The proportion of poor families headed by women is steadily increasing.

"Now that federal courts have ruled that comparable worth is not just a legal theory, but a workplace reality, women are going to be demanding equal pay for comparable worth," said Diana Rock, AFSCME's director of women's activities. "We intend to be a leader in efforts to achieve pay equity and comparable worth for working women."

She noted that the union has also filed EEOC (Equal Employment Opportunity Commission) charges or legal action similar to the Washington complaint against the cities of Philadelphia, Chicago and Los Angeles, against the states of Connecticut, Wisconsin and Hawaii, against Nassau County, New York, and against the Reading, Pa., school district.

"Pay equity and comparable worth are the women's rights issues of the 1980s," she continued; "1984 will see a large-scale continuation of legal actions against employers who practice illegal wage discrimination against working women."

The booklet advises working women that pay equity problems exist on the job if:

1. A pattern of sex-segregated jobs and departments is found.

2. Average pay is lower for women than men.

3. "Women's" jobs are paid lower than "men's"; and

4. When salaries for "women's" jobs which require similar qualifications to "men's" jobs are compared, the women are paid less.

The booklet contains options for working women to achieve pay equity, including legal action.

ST. LOUIS MAN CHARGED AFTER LEAVING ACCIDENT

Robert Jerome Watson, 32, St. Louis, turned himself into the Venice police department last week after he allegedly left the scene of an accident. Watson was charged with reckless driving, leaving the scene of an accident and failure to give information after striking a fixed object.

Watson had allegedly left the scene of an accident Monday after hitting a parked car belonging to Mary Haynes, 1730 Market St., Madison. Miss Haynes' car was parked in front of her residence, when it was hit from behind, causing it to crash into the front wall of her home, causing structural damage. The home is rented from Joseph Marsala.

Watson allegedly fled east through the front yards of homes in the 1700 block of Market Street. He was released to appear in court.

OUTBOARD MOTOR TAKEN

Oscar Wendle, 1894 Sixth St., Madison, reported to Madison police last week that an outboard motor was missing from his front porch. Wendle said he believed the theft occurred sometime between Dec. 20, 1983 and Jan. 2, 1984.

DUI arrest follows two-vehicle mishap

An accident last week resulted in the arrest of Andrew M. Opich, 47, of 2401 Hodges Ave., on a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol.

Reports alleged Opich's auto, traveling north on Madison Avenue, turned into 27th Street and struck a vehicle operated by Kenneth R. Payne, 33, of 2499 Rock Road, who was halted at a traffic light.

Opich declined to take a breathalyzer test and was charged, reports said. He was released after posting a $100 cash bond.

BURGLARS RANSACK HOUSE, TAKE COMPUTER, STEREO

Robert and Arla Melhorn, 1643 Olive St., returned home from vacation last week and found their house had been burglarized and ransacked. The intruders forced a rear door open to gain entry and left the doors open on a refrigerator and freezer.

Furniture was overturned and personal papers were scattered in about the family room. Cabinets in the kitchen and bathroom had been searched, reports noted.

Among the missing items were an AM-FM stereo system with a turntable, cassette player and two speakers, worth $495, a 19-inch color television costing $70, a home computer worth $150, video game module valued at $149, an antique clock costing $50, an AM-FM radio cassette player worth $65 and a checkbook.

MATCH COLLISION DEBRIS

Anthony R. Koziol, 30, Houston, Tex., was arrested last week for allegedly leaving the scene after a crash with the parked auto of Dan Warfield, 2612 Madison Ave., in the 2600 block of Madison Avenue. The arrest took place on Boyle Avenue after police alleged they had matched debris and paint from the two cars.

A year of good times, bad times, changes

The past year has again given the residents of the Quad-City area a dose of the good and the bad sprinkled with changes in just about every segment of the community. Included here is a selection of photos taken by Press-Record photographers which shows some of what happened during the year. Clockwise from top: The "Tornado of '83" will long be remembered as one of the most devastating storms to rip through this area in recent decades. Debris is seen strewn over Nameeki Road in front of the Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center on the day after, Monday, May 2. Granite City Center of Belleville Area College opened in August. BAC Board Chairman Patricia Bartsokas addresses the gathering at the dedication of the center located on the former Granite City High School North campus. Project Help volunteers hand out turkeys and other food prior to Christmas to those unemployed caught up in the adverse economic conditions. Assistance for the unemployed and poor increased during the year, but requests far exceeded the available help. A devastating fire was fought by Granite City firefighters at the Irwin Chapel for Funerals in sub-zero temperatures during late December. An estimated $250,000 damage was the result. Three new faces on the Granite City Board of Education from left, Kelly Hogan, Alan Crider and Mrs. Ruth Lahr — were joined by re-elected incumbent David Partney at a victory celebration on election night in early November. Partney was subsequently elected president of the board. Rita Harrell, then student body president of Granite City High School North, addresses a public meeting in January in an attempt to save her school from the budget cuts proposed by some members of the school board. The high school, along with five elementary school buildings, was closed at the end of the 1982-83 school year. Good news was heard from A. O. Smith corporate headquarters early in the year about the reopening of the auto frame plant here. Renovation of the plant, including painting the front of the building in August, began soon after the announcement.

Granite Sheet Metal sues city over new ordinance

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

A new code to regulate home and business mechanical work in Granite City has invoked a legal challenge from one of the city's major contractors. Granite Sheet Metal Works, Inc., 2500 Missouri Ave., owned by the sons of the former Granite City mayor, the late Donald Partney Sr.

Madison County Associate Judge Jonathan Isbell declined Friday to reschedule until Feb. 2 a hearing on the company's request for a temporary injunction to prevent the enforcement of the code.

ALDERMEN approved the revised contractors' law last month, but the city has yet to put into effect the new code, pending the rewriting of the current contractors' law. Test, necessary for the issuance of a commercial work permit.

The new code dramatically revises the scope of heating, air conditioning and other mechanical repair and installation work that must be done by city-licensed contractors. The code also increases permit charges, expands licensing categories and imposes penalties against those violating the terms of the new law.

The injunction filed by Granite Sheet Metal charges the code is discriminatory in its language, does not adequately define the business it seeks to regulate and "could be applied so as to harm the ordinary business" of Granite Sheet Metal.

ASSISTANT CITY Attorney Irvin C. State Jr. said the new code was needed to recognize the development of new technology and does not violate the rights of the objecting company. Until the new code was written, City Engineer Monroe regulated fireplaces, wood-burning stoves, air cleaning systems, elevators and several other types of mechanical work. Granite Sheet Metal, which the city needs a new ordinance, but contends the ordinance in question covers a lot of things it shouldn't. He cited dust collectors, standardized venting systems and the inclusion of work carried out for industrial companies, as examples.

His company performs installation of a single gas line for local industries, and he believes those industries are more capable of inspecting such work than city personnel.

CITY ENGINEER Brewer said the city's obligation to protect industrial employees is as important as protecting the residential population. He agreed that, in certain instances, the city inspectors may not be as well trained as industrial employees, but believes that is an adequate reason to give up the city's right to perform safety inspections. In addition to his objection to industrial inspections, Partney is concerned about the increase in bonding requirements and the increase in the number of permits that might be needed at a single job site that involves several mechanical installations. He also is disturbed about the penalties for violating the law, that could include a six-month suspension of a company's business license.

Apparently other city contractors also are concerned about the code changes. The city engineer said he invited the 55 contractors currently licensed by the city to discuss their concerns at a forum conducted by the city later last month.

ACCORDING TO Brewer, the contractors' chief concern is the future test that would be required for them to be relicensed. The city engineer pledged that the test will not be rewritten to keep some contractors from passing, and he said the city will work with those who might fail the test.

"By forcing them to take the test," Brewer said, "We force them to familiarize themselves with the new code. Nobody should be complaining about passing the test until they fail it."

Some aldermen asked the city engineer at last week's city council meeting if a grandfather clause could be inserted to allow those currently licensed to skip the new testing procedures.

Brewer contends that many contractors already flout the law by failing to take out mechanical permits.

GOP leaders endorse Don Weber

Madison County Republican leaders have unanimously endorsed State's Attorney Don Weber in his bid for a second term. The leaders from every area of the county gathered Thursday night to express support for Weber.

led by Madison County Republican Chairman Dr. Ed Ragsdale, the group, composed of all nine district chairmen, County Chairman Eleanor Schulte, Candidate Committee Chairman Ray Stillwell, Republican Club Chairman Dale Kennedy, County Board Member Bill Aery and others, strongly endorsed Weber's re-election bid and urged all

Republicans to rally behind the incumbent Republican.

Chairman to make a maximum effort to turn out the Republican voters in the March 20 Republican primary. "Don Weber has done an outstanding job as state's attorney and deserves our support," Ragsdale told the group. "As a candidate, Weber promised the people of this county he would get tough on crime. In three years he has nearly doubled the length of prison sentences for violent offenses. As a result, the violent crime rate has plunged over 25 percent and Madison County citizens are begining to have safer homes, streets and businesses."

"Don Weber has helped the small businessman by a sympathetic policy toward bad checks and helped the taxpayers by cleaning up the enormous tax docket backlog and keeping a watchful eye on the taxing process in general," Dr. Ragsdale said.

During a brief talk to the group, Weber announced that his campaign chairman will be former Madison County Representative Everett G. Steele (R-Glen Carbon).

The nine district chairmen endorsing Weber included Granite City Chairman Ken Holsinger and Nameoki Chairman Mike Nance.

Owners of unclaimed assets sought

State Representative Sam Wolf (D-Granite City) and State Sen. Sam Vannoy (D-Granite City) are trying to locate constituents who may have funds which they have forgotten. He is working with the Illinois Department of Financial Institutions in a cooperative effort to find the owners of unclaimed assets.

"Many are residents who have at least $100 of assets waiting to be claimed," Wolf said. "These unclaimed assets generally consist of checking or savings accounts, dividends, unclaimed payroll checks and safe deposit box contents — although they could consist of nearly any unclaimed financial asset," he said.

After assets have been abandoned or inactive for seven years, the holder of the property must attempt to locate the owner. If the effort fails, the assets are turned over to the state. The state then holds the assets indefinitely until they are claimed by the owner or heirs of the estate.

"We are attempting to rejoin the owner with his or her lost assets before the state takes custody," Wolf said.

Persons on the list include: Clarence Adams, 62 Venice Homes, Venice; Lakeside Athletic, 15 Devon Hill; Patricia A. Alkinson, 204 Tennessee Ave., Mitchell; Alex and Maria Awadis, 1740 Maple St.; Ruth Burkett, 705 Twenty-eighth Place; Keith Curtis, 2520 State St.; Boris Catherine and Dana Eilert, 2210 Anos Ave., and Winford Fitch, 2533 Hemlock Ave.

Also, Stephen and Laurel Garg, 3329 Colgate Place; Joan Griner, 1922 State St.; Home Furniture, Delmar and Niedringhaus avenues; John and Lorna Huthaus, 2835 Palmer Ave.; Leroy and Bernice Lanahan, 2523 Benton St.; and John Ligue, 4010 Braden Ave.

London Chevrolet, Rural Route 2, Box 1115, Granite City; William E. Lynch, 2440 E. 24th St.; Vahog and Mary Mateosian, 3226 Colgate

Place; H. McMillan Jr., 2414 E. 23rd St.; Fred, Anita and Joyce Millard, 2402 State St.; Henry Myleart, Rural Route 2, and Sylvia Ocek, 2539 Jorden Ave.

Persons on the list may write to the Department of Financial Institutions, 421 East Capitol, Room 205, Springfield, Ill., 62706. Persons should include their name, address and county of residence and they will be put in touch with the holder of their property, who will then provide them with specific information about the amount of type of asset being held.

'Dangerous' youth recaptured

A "dangerous" 16-year-old boy whose last known address was in Granite City, is back in the Madison County Detention Home after he escaped from a psychiatric unit at Bellevue Memorial Hospital last Wednesday.

Since he is a juvenile, the name of the boy is not being released.

Authorities said the youth, wearing pajamas, apparently leaped from a second-floor window of the hospital Wednesday night and took a taxi from Bellevue to Fairview Heights. Near St. Clair Square Shopping Center, the boy jumped from the cab and ran.

The cab company notified authorities and Fairview Heights officers searched for the boy, finding him, still in pajamas, on the Route 150 overpass over Interstate 64.

The boy has been a ward of the court since he was 2 years old and was scheduled to be sentenced Jan. 18 or a probation revocation. The boy had been delinquent in the past because of his accountability in two armed robberies. He was in the hospital for psychiatric evaluation prior to sentencing.

Added protection for mail-order patrons enacted

Amendments to mail-order consumer protection laws that expand Postal Service abilities to protect mail-order customers from fraud and false representation have been signed into law by President Reagan.

"The amendments close loopholes used each year to cheat thousands of victims of mail-order fraud or the disadvantaged," Postmaster General William F. Bolger said.

"They allow postal inspectors to buy and return an advertised product directly from a promoter at the price listed."

"They also authorize the Postal Service to issue a cease and desist order against promoters using false advertising, and empower federal courts to impose penalties of up to $10,000 per day for those who fail to comply."

"Congress and the president have performed a major service for consumers in enacting this important legislation," Bolger said. "It is a big step in our efforts to protect consumers against mail fraud."

For more than a century, the Postal Service has been authorized to protect consumers by returning mail sent in response to false or misleading advertising.

Prior to the Mail Order Consumer Protection Amendments of 1983, the Postal Service would obtain a sample of the product advertised either from a victim or, more often, through a mail order purchase under an assumed name and address.

Unscrupulous but clever promoters would frustrate postal efforts simply by not filling mail campaign was completed and all money was in the Postal Service hands.

Enforcement proceedings begun at this point did little to benefit consumers, since the promoters already had their money," Bolger noted.

"The old statute contained no penalty to discourage violators from continuing or resuming similar advertising schemes under a different name or address. The new law's substantial penalty is expected to deter such schemes."

"Most mail-order firms are responsible business and join the new service in encouraging victims of mail-order fraud or false advertising to contact the Postal Inspection Service or their promoter."

"In 1982, nearly 500 formal cases were filed under the postal false representation statute. It is hoped that if it sounds too good to be true, it probably isn't true."

Resolution would seek steel import limits

State Rep. Sam W. Wolf (D-Granite City) announced today that as Chairman of the Illinois Steel Caucus, along with Rep. Bob D. Holland, and Rep. Sam Panayotovich of Chicago, filed a resolution with the clerk's office of the Illinois House of Representatives to be presented to the Legislature during the January-February sessions.

The resolution, recognizing the closing of about 175 steel plants over the past five years, calls attention to the loss of more than 200,000 steelworker jobs since 1977. This will cause the loss of production of 13 million tons of steel capacity and charges that as a result of subsidization by foreign countries, the importation of steel into the United States has expanded at an ever-increasing rate.

The resolution calls upon Congress to enact a Fair Trade in Steel Act which would temporarily limit steel imports into the United States and provide the steel industry with the means to modernize and become competitive in the world market.

Wolf indicated that there would be wide support for the resolution as both legislative parties endorse its passage. "It is our intention to furnish a copy of the resolution to all members of the Illinois Congressional delegation, to solicit their support in persuading Congress to enact and implement the resolution," Wolf said.

"The steel industry, despite a resurgence of optimism, still has an uphill battle," Wolf remarked, "and needs the assistance of government for the enforcement of trade laws throughout the world, most especially in those areas in which the United States participates."

Wolf indicated that the Steel Caucus is hopeful that other states will follow the lead of Illinois and impress upon the United States Congress the need for legislation, such as that described.

Part of Heidtman building completed by end of week

Work on two sections of the Heidtman Steel building on Route 3 in the Northgate Industrial Park is expected to be completed by the end of this week, Robert Fry, a Granite City native and president of Fry Construction Co. and Fry Custom Homes, Glen Carbon, announced Thursday.

Two separate contracts for construction of the front office and the employee facilities building at the new Heidtman building construction on Route 3 in Granite City.

Fry said the contracts total $96,000 for the work. One contract is for $45,000 and the other $51,000.

Fry Construction will build the front offices and will include a cafeteria, locker room, restrooms, electric and boiler rooms, laboratory and acid storage facilities in the employee facility building.

Drywalling is underway as one of the final steps toward completion of the two segments of the new plant, which will be Granite City's newest manufacturing plant. The company will clean, process and cut steel coils to customer specifications.

One injury in multiple-vehicle mishap Thursday

Ice covered pavement caused a multiple-vehicle accident early Thursday on Route 3, about a half-mile south of Niedringhaus Avenue, when the southbound auto of Perin K. Reitor, 26, of the Granite City Army Installation, skidded and went off the road to the right, then returned sideways into the traffic lanes.

Reitor's auto apparently was then struck in the left rear by the car of Sheryl Simpson, 193 Niedringhaus Ave., with the impact knocking her auto into the guardrail, and a pickup truck operated by Dennis R.J. Shea, Godfrey, struck the Reitor car head-on.

At that point, according to reports, a pickup driven by Thomas LeMaster, 23, of 2408 Logan Ave., hit Shea's pickup in the rear and a compact car operated by Fred D. Young, Alton, struck the LeMaster pickup. Young's car then was struck in the rear by a motorist, listed only as "unknown."

The only victim in the six-vehicle encounter, other than the various southbound vehicles themselves, appeared to be Reitor, who sustained a minor injury, according to reports.

At the same time, Granite City officers also were handling another collision on Route 3 at Niedringhaus Avenue, involving a tractor-trailer truck and an auto. No injuries resulted from the accident.

Legion hosts 250 at children's party

A Christmas party was held at American Legion Post 113, 1825 State St., for children of the Tri-City area. Approximately 250 persons attended.

A snack was served to all present, consisting of hot dogs, potato chips, soda and cup cakes baked by the Ladies Auxiliary of the post.

Each child present talked to Santa and received a toy and a bag containing fruit and candy from one of Santa's elves.

The bags were filled from donations from Jul Fischer Distributors, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Hawkins, First Granite City National Bank.

REPORTS THEFTS AND DAMAGE AT APARTMENTS

Joann Toolen, 2228 Alexander Ave., reported at 5:35 p.m. Thursday that someone stole a heat lamp from the bathroom and damaged doors to the kitchen cabinet and bedroom and a front door glass at an apartment at 2224 Alexander.

Also discovered missing was a 19-inch color television from an adjacent apartment at 2226 Alexander Ave., she told police.

Hardee's of Madison, Robert Faustich, Frito-Lay, Schermer Supermarket, Rev. and Mrs. Larry Melvin, O'Dell Iron and Metal Co., Ben McMillan, Ed Allen and David Clark.

The toys presented were purchased from profits from the Las Vegas Nite held at the post in November.

The remaining toys were taken to the children's ward at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Remaining bags of fruit and candy were given to the new life church on State Street to put in baskets for the needy.

AN EDWARDSVILLE ROAD MISHAP INJURES DRIVER

An accident at Edwardsville Road and Atlantic Avenue last week resulted in an injury to one driver, Marilyn S. Wisniewski, 25, of 2410 Sheridan Ave., whose southbound vehicle was involved in a collision with an auto entering Edwardsville Road, operated by Edward J. Gaudreault, 45, of 1716 Courtney Blvd.

Mrs. Wisniewski was taken by a relative to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment, reports said.

MS Society seeking Crisis Line workers

The Multiple Sclerosis Society is promoting several new programs and seeking volunteers. These programs will offer MS clients an opportunity for phone information, referrals or a friendly conversation. A hospital or home visit also could also be extended.

An extensive training program will be provided for volunteers, starting Jan. 23. As few as five hours a month are required of those wishing to volunteer once the training session is taken.

Multiple Sclerosis is a neurological disease — a disabling affliction of the brain and spinal cord — for which there is, as yet, no cure. In MS, the substance known as myelin, a tissue which insulates the nerve fibers, disintegrates. It is replaced by scar tissue, thus blocking or distorting nerve impulses which control such functions as walking, talking, vision and other bodily functions.

MS is neither a mental disease, nor is it contagious. However, approximately 500,000 Americans suffer from MS and related diseases. Victims are usually between the ages of 15 and 50, and their numbers are growing. Recent government figures show that 200 people a week are diagnosed as having multiple sclerosis.

Those who have MS usually display some or all of these symptoms: partial or complete paralysis of parts of the body; double or otherwise defective vision; numbness or involuntary movements of the hands; noticeable dragging of one or both feet; speech difficulties, such as slurring; staggering or loss of balance (MS people erroneously are thought to be intoxicated); extreme weakness or fatigue; pricking sensation in parts of the body, and loss of coordination and tremors of hands.

Multiple Sclerosis is usually progressive, causing the person with MS to suffer a series of unexpected attacks which may cause further disability, even paralysis. Sometimes, it may only display itself through minor or fleeting symptoms, which are infrequent.

For further information interested persons may contact Bonnie Kelly, patient services coordinator at the Multiple Sclerosis Society, 35 Olive, Suite 815, St. Louis, 1-314-241-3225.
